American Minister to Belgium Compelled to Take Down Flag, State

RELATIONS BADLY STRAINED

Latest Action of Germany Viewed
as Possibly Open Affront, Combined With Sinking Schooner

RELIEF WORKERS "DETAINED"

Refusal to Allow Minister to Communicate With Own Government Makes it More Grave

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 15.—Relations with Germany and the Teutonic allies were stretched to the snapping point today when this government received positive confirmation that Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium had been forced to lower the Stars and Stripes from the American legation at Brussels.

This confirmation brought Germany and the United States nearer to open hostility than any event since President Wilson broke off diplomatic relations with the kaiser.
Officials viewed the act as a possible open affront.

This latest case is made more grave, officials said, in view of additional information that Whitlock is now refused communication with his home government and Belgian relief workers are "being detained."

While officials would not discuss the case, it was hinted that as soon as more facts are in hand, this government may make pre-emptory demands upon Germany to explain without delay.

Coming as the incident does on the heels of the sinking of American vessel in the Mediterranean in violation of the law as construed by the United States government, heavy blows were struck at the small lingering hope of the president that hostilities between United States and Germany might be avoided.

Ambassador Gerard reported officially to the state department that Germany had tried to force him to have the 1799 treaty re-ratified under penalty of holding American newspaper men as hostages.

Official reports of the sinking of the American schooner Lyman M.
Law in the Mediterranean by an Austrian submarine added only slightly to the tension, for while the act is believed to have been illegal, no lives were lost and the vessel apparently was warned. The incident was not looked upon as one in itself sufficient to hurry the development of the situation.

Preliminary reports began coming to government departments showing the piling up about the Atlantic seaboard of goods destined for export to European ports. No serious effect from this condition will be felt, however, until lapse of sufficient time for ships remaining in American ports to have gone to Europe and returned. While only approximately 10 per cent of American commerce with Europe is carried on American ships, the sailing of vessels of other nationalities in many instances have either been cancelled or postponed, and, therefore, the result of the ruthless submarine campaign in time will result in far-reaching disturbance of the industrial life of the United States.

Preparations by the government for any eventualities still are going forward without interruption. Much importance is attached to the work of the council of national defense, which is holding daily sessions for the purpose of learning at first-hand from Americans of experience what provision must be made to co-ordinate American resources. E. S. Ste-

Officials Warn Against a Dual Berlin Menace

(CARL W. ACKERMAN)
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
(Copyright 1917 by United Press)

Paris, Feb. 15.—Warning against the dual menace of German submarine activity in American waters and of German peace propaganda which may in reality be a play for time is being sounded today by American officials familiar with the real situation in Berlin.

Germany's attempt to negotiate the issue of her unlimited submarine order through the Swiss legation while Ambassador Gerard was still in Berlin is regarded with suspicion. The move is viewed as an attempt to forestall action by United States until Germany can make such disposition of her submarines as will enable her to strike with her U-boats should open hostilities develop.

The maneuver having failed, it is no surprise to American officials to hear that Germany has now repudiated the efforts of the Swiss minister.

These suggestions for negotiations are regarded solely as having been an expedient to gain time while the German finance peace movement in America could get into action.

York, was again before the council, furnishing information gained from experience as head of his firm's huge transactions in war orders for the entente allies.

HALIFAX NEW PORT OF CALL

Will in Measure Defeat Purposes of German Submarine Blockade

(By United Press.)

New York, Feb. 15.—The British admiralty has designed Halifax as the port of call for neutral ships leaving American ports instead of Kirkwall, it was learned today.

The announcement was received with the greatest enthusiasm at the offices of neutral steamship companies which began immediate preparation for renewal of sailings.

Kirkwall is in the danger zone marked off by Germany in her recent submarine order. By being able to stop at Halifax for examination, the vessels can take a course far north of the submarine barrier and in a measure defeat the purposes of the blockade.

WANTS SHIPS PROTECTED

Rep. Gardner Demands Merchantmen be Provided With Armament

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 15.—Representative Gardner, Massachusetts, today called upon the government to furnish armament for American merchant ships. He declared that if armament is not given American merchant fleet, then the navy department could furnish convoys.

Gardner denounced William Jennings Bryan for conducting a campaign that "appeals to the cowardice which lurks in every man's breast—a cowardice which is the result of the strongest of human instincts—the instinct of self preservation.

"The Bryan followers are the pacifists, who place loyalty to Germany ahead of the United States."

ville spent the day here today.

property at the meeting here Feb. 24.

INJURIES IN FALL TODAY MAY BE FATAL

Pinkney Dearinger Suffers Slight Concussion When he Topples
Off Building at Case Mill.

SCAFFOLDING CHECKS FALL

Pinkney Dearinger, a well known carpenter of this city, was seriously and perhaps fatally hurt this morning in a fall from a building under course of construction at the Case mill. Mr. Dearinger fell a distance of thirty feet, landing on his head and shoulders. He suffered a slight concussion and the exact extent of his injuries may not be known for some time.

Mr. Dearinger's fall was checked by a scaffolding, but after hitting this he continued to drop an additional twenty feet. He probably would have been killed instantly but for the scaffolding. He suffered great pain after regaining consciousness. He was removed to his home, 841 North Harrison street. Mr.
Dearinger was helping build the building at the Case mill and in some manner lost his balance. The point from which he fell was about thirty feet from the ground. In falling he struck the scaffolding a glancing blow, resulting in injury to his chest.

SCHOOL CITY SELLS $16,000 BOND ISSUE

It is Purchased Today by Peoples National Bank—Issued for Redemption Purposes.

PREMIUM OF $525 IS PAID

The $16,000 bond issue of the School City of Rushville was purchased this afternoon by the Peoples National bank, paying a premium of $525. The bonds are for redemption purposes, are ten year bonds and of $500 denomination.

The bonds were sold by the school board at the office of Dr. J. B. Kin-singer, treasurer. There was only one other bidder, the Rushville National bank, offering $284 premium.
The school board considered the premium offered by the successful bidder as extremely good.

DECIDE TO HOLD FAIR THIS YEAR

Directors Reach Decision Today and Announce Radical Changes
in Management

FAMILY TICKETS ABOLISHED

Stockholders' Tickets to be Limited
to Individual Stockholders—
Premium List Revised

Showing a change of opinion from the last meeting, the board of directors of the Rush County Fair association, today voted to hold the annual event this year. The date was definitely established, the local fair taking the first week following the state fair, which is the week of September 11.

At the last meeting the board of directors almost to a man was opposed to holding the fair this year, but one director stated "that the people of Rush county would be given another chance to support a home industry." Radical changes in the rules and regulations were made at the meeting today, making the session one of the most important held by the fair board in recent years.

The rule providing for the issuance of family tickets for the sum of $1.50 was abolished. The directors also voted to confine the stockholder's tickets to the individual stockholders only, cutting out their families.

The directors took the position that the family tickets alone detracted from the receipts sufficiently to have made last year's fair a success.
It was stated that the people took advantage of these tickets and did not confine them to their own families but took into the grounds other people. The families of stockholders will be required to pay an admission fee along with the rest of the people if they are to see this year's event.

These two changes in the rules have been contemplated for several years, but many of the older directors always prevented their passage.
Nine members of the board of directors attended the meeting and immediately set about to make the changes which they believe will insure the success of the fair. The first business was the decision to hold the fair. The other changes followed in rapid order.

The board took a united stand in an effort to stop all leaks and the matter of passes was considered one of the greatest. The fair board was in session until a late hour this afternoon rearranging the premium lists. The premium will be revised, cutting out some that are not necessary, but in no way detracting from the fair as a whole.

The superintendents of the various departments were named as follows:
Speed—Will King and Ad Denning.

Draft horses—H. E. Daubenspeck.
General purpose horses—J. F. Cross.
Light harness—Everett Piper.
Cattle—W. A. Norris.

Hogs and Sheep—Guy Gordon.

Poultry—J. M. Cross.

Mechanical department—A. L. Stewart.

Agriculture—A. T. Junkin.

Art and fancy work—W. A. Alexander.

Stalls—William Dagler.

A committee was appointed to look after the grounds and report on the advisability of changing the gates.
The board went on record as favoring a system or turnstiles to further the effort to stop the leaks.

COURT BAILIFF NEAR DEATH.

J. K. Jamison, court bailiff, is in a critical condition at the Sexton sanatorium, following an emergency operation last night for appendicitis and obstruction of the gall duct.

ful, but peritonitis had developed.
Late this afternoon Mr. Jamison was just about holding his own, but there was little hope for his recovery.

ANOTHER CAR IS EXPECTED

Bill For More Coal Received But Did Not Arrive Today

The last of the city's first two cars of coal was hauled this morning.
Another car was expected today but failed to arrive, although the bill for the car has been received. The city officials had hoped the car would arrive so as not to interrupt the hauling, but were again due to disappointment. It was stated this afternoon that the car would surely be here in the morning. The car will be located the same place the first two cars were, on the siding at the water and light plant.

SUIT FOR $10,000 DAMAGES STARTS

Cecil K. Marshall Asserts Injury to
His Hand Was Due to Negligence of Bakery Owner

BERT ORME IS DEFENDANT

Understood Defense Will Attempt to Show Plaintiff Was Not in Condition to Work

The $10,000 damage suit of Cecil
K. Marshall of Richland township against Bert Orme, started today before a jury in circuit court. The action is based on a personal injury sustained by Marshall while working for Orme in a bakery in this city.
The accident occurred in December, 1913. Marshall sustained a badly mangled right hand when he caught it in a dough mixer.

Marshall was the first witness to testify. His cross-examination was started shortly after the noon recess. Marshall alleges negligence on the part of Orme in not providing the proper guards. It is understood that Orme will contend that the accident was due entirely to the carelessness of Marshall and from the questions asked Marshall it is believed an attempt will be made to show that he was up late the night before the accident and was not in condition to work on the morning the accident occurred.

The accident occurred on Sunday morning. Marshall claims to be permanently injured. His injured hand was exhibited to the jury. The plaintiff is represented by Samuel L.
Trabue and Tittsworth and Oneal, while Orme is represented by Kiplinger and Smith. The case will probably require two days. The jury is as follows: Peter S. Hollowell, James Foster, James M. Cross, George Whissing, William Bliss, James A.
Dill, S. L. Hodge, Edgar Logan, T.
G. Bussell, Walter Patton, Sam
Young and Edson Eakin.

An agreement was reached yesterday afternoon in the claim of Mary
A. Heaton against the estate of her brother, the late Riley Stewart, whereby Mrs. Heaton was given a judgment for $90. The jury was discharged and the court permitted to enter the judgment by agreement.
Mrs. Stewart demanded $125.

The damage suit of Edward Guttman against Lincoln Gruell was dismissed and the costs paid. Guttman demanded $500. The suit was based on an automobile accident occur-ing last summer east of the city.

By agreement several judgments on claims were entered against the estate of the late Theodore Gregg.
The Knecht Clothing Company was allowed $15.50; O. C. Norris $83.25 on one claim and $113 on another and Sue Gregg, $70.

LOCAL DEGREE HAS A HISTORY

Committee Arranging For District
Meeting Finds Gen. Hackle-man Started Order Here

GREAT FRIEND OF COLFAX

Believed That Rebekah Lodge Here
Was First One Started in United States

An historic fact not generally known in relation to the Rebekah degree in this city, has been discovered by the committee in charge of the district meeting to be held here February 22. The Rebekah degree was adopted in Baltimore, September 20, 1851, the ritual being prepared by Schlyer Colfax of Indiana. P. A.
Hackleman, afterwards a general, losing his life at Corinth, Miss., in the service of his country, was present at this meeting.

Seven days later, Sept. 27, 1851,
the records of Franklin lodge show that a special meeting was held and
"P. A. Hackleman being present conferred the Rebekah degree lately adopted by the grand lodge of the United States upon six brothers." It thus appears that the degree was presented in the lodge room still in use by the same lodge, for the first time in any lodge.

This incident is expected to create quite an interest among the visitors here next week. Schlyer Colfax and P. A. Hackman were great friends and worked strenuously for the admission of wives and daughters of Odd Fellows into the order. In 1850 Colfax brought in a minority report at the session of the grand lodge of the United States signed by himself alone in favor of such action and after a spirited debate carried it by a vote of 46 to 28 and he, with Martin of Mississippi and Stelle of Tennessee were appointed to prepare the ritual, which duty Colfax personally performed. The ritual was adopted the next year.

The close association of Colfax and Hackleman probably accounts for the promptness with which Gen.
Hackleman proceeded to introduce the work in Rushville. He probably started the work following his return from Baltimore as at that time the journey was not so quickly accomplished as now.

The first ladies were admitted here
November 26 of the same year.
Among the names of the first Rebe-kahs familiar to the present generation were Mrs. O. C. Hackleman, Mrs.
Porter, Lewis Maddux, R. A. Cox,
Norvil W. Cox and Charles Sherman.
The degree at that time was given in the subordinate lodge of Odd Fellows, a separate lodge, not being instituted here until 1874. The only charter members of which are now living are Edwin Farrer and V. C.
Bodine.

From this early beginning the Rushville lodge has progressed until now it has 200 members with a splendidly equipped lodge room. Its degree staff of 25 members confers the degree in spectacular manner with orchestral accompaniment.

The connection of P. A. Hackle-man with the early history of the order is especially interesting at this time, as there is pending in the legislature a bill to appropriate a sum for a statue to him in this city.
The members are especially anxious for this bill to pass.

ture is over. He received so many dry petitions and letters would not vote dry that they senate clerks to open his mail each day.

"THE FOOTLIGHTS OF FATE"

A story of the stage and society. Lifting a crest-fallen head from the squalidness of poverty and wretchedness, this girl, driven from home by a besotted father, fawned upon by the parasites who infest the footlights glare, after some out-of-the-ordinary trials and heartaches, wins a place on the stage and captures success.

Perhaps every poor unfortunate drudge forced to toil from morning till night dreams of the time when fortune will smile and fame will come, but few are they who realize their dreams as did the central character of the Mutual production "Doorsteps" which comes to the Gem Friday night with Florence Turner in the title role. Among the noted players supporting Miss Turner are Henry Edwards, author of the photoplay, Campbell Gullau and others.

SKIN GRAFTED ON WOUND

Zack Gordon, who was severely burned on the right foot by electricity while working on the Big Four bridge south of the city is getting along as well as could be expected. The burn on the foot has been slow to heal. A piece of skin three inches in circumference was taken from the calf of his leg and grafted to the wounded part. The injury will probably leave Gordon crippled for life, as several of the tendons were burned in two.

Upheld Goodrich.

Original news reports of the recent special election in the Steuben-Lagarange-Noble senatorial district were misleading in the extreme and very unjust to the republican party and the new state administration. The only correct thing about the original report was that the republican candidate won. His plurality was given as 945 as against a republican plurality in that district last November of 2,004 votes and he was credited with carrying two of three counties while all three of them went Republican last November.

As a matter of fact the Republican candidate in the recent special senatorial election had a plurality of 1958, in a sixty per cent vote. Had the vote been as heavy as it was last November the republican plurality would have been in excess of 3,000 votes. The Republican candidate carried all three counties in the district, his plurality in Noble being the largest republican plurality scored in more than 20 years.

The result of this special election is significant as it reveals unmistakably the attitude that has been assumed by the people of Indiana towards the Goodrich administration. A bitter fight was waged in this senatorial district against the republican candidate by influences that are opposed to the governor's program but what was the answer? The voters rallied to the candidate carrying the republican standard, in a way that fairly dazed the democratic politicians who have been trying desperately of late to convince themselves that the Goodrich program is not meeting with popular approval. If the democratic leaders were wise in their day, they might be able to hear, even at this early date, the rumblings of the storm that will overtake them next year when they go out into the highways and byways of Indiana and try to justify their opposition to every move that has been made by Governor Goodrich in the interests of economy and efficiency in the conduct of the state government.

had to say for, instance, about the oil inspection department in his message to the legislature.

"We have in the state at this time fifty-nine oil deputies, a chief oil inspector in the state house and the clerical force under his charge, for which service in fees, salaries and expenses they are receiving approximately $125,000 each year.

"I recommend that the entire oil department, as now constituted, be abolished at once; that the work now being done by this department be turned over to the pure food and drug department; that the commissioner be authorized to increase his present force of deputies by not to exceed three; that he be allowed an additional chemist and a sufficient increase in the appropriation for his department to cover the added expense; that the fees as now charged be paid into the state treasury."

As the recommendation undoubtedly has the right ring, as far as the taxpayers of the state are concerned, the men or agencies that oppose it find themselves laboring under a heavy handicap from the start. The truth of the matter is the short sighted democrats who are inclined to oppose this Goodrich plan are still looking into the uncovered grave which Indiana democracy was shoved one day early in last November by a party which has acquired the habit of profiting by its own mistakes as well as by the mistakes of its opposition.

INTERSTATE BRIDGE OPENED

Celebrating Marks Opening of New Structure Connecting Washington and Oregon

IS FOUR MILES IN LENGTH

Old Weather Beaten Ferryboat "City of Vancouver" Makes Its Last Trip

(By United Press.)

Vancouver, Wash., Feb. 15.—In a din of steamboat whistles, clanging bells and cheers from thousands of spectators, the new $1,750,000 interstate bridge between Oregon and Washington was opened today.

The structure is one of the longest in the world, four miles, including approaches. It spans the Columbia river between Vancouver and Multnomah counties, a few miles from Portland.

When the great central draw was lowered into place today, a street car crowded with officials and noted visitors, slowly crossed. That was the signal for an outburst of noise such as the old Columbia never heard before. A procession of flag bedecked automobiles followed the car and another long line of machines started at the same time from the Washington side. They passed in the middle.

While the crowd was assembling, an old, weather beaten ferryboat, the "City of Vancouver," slipped out of its berth on its last trip across the Columbia. The bridge had superseded it.

Bravely adorned with flags and bunting, the little craft chugged slowly under the central span, its funnel dwarfed by the towering steel framework. Its whistle tooted a hoarse farewell as it bucked the muddy current for the last time.

Today's ceremonies will be repeated more for mally in June. At that time Governor Lister of Washington and Governor Withycomb of Oregon are to participate, delegations will come from the whole northwest, including British Columbia, and if plans materialize, a flotilla of government destroyers will pass in review under the central span.

What it Cost Not to Have Business Insurance.

Two brothers of one of the oldest families of a community inherited money and made money; did business together. Both married.

A few months ago one died, without life insurance payable to his business.

His wife decided she did not care to have her money left in the business, and under prevailing business conditions the brother could not conveniently buy out the estate.

Agreeing on the price with the sister-in-law was not easy.

Just when orders were beginning to pile up and much prosperity was in sight, the business was closed out for the benefit of their competitors, not only at a loss to the wife of the deceased brother, but, also, throwing the remaining brother out of a business that had been prosperous for a generation.

Gets Attention Among Fans

Basketball Tournament Which Will be Played Here Saturday, Feb. 24, Excites Interest

"JUMBO" STIEHM, REFEREE

Games Will Start at 9:30 A. M. With Four in Morning, Two in Afternoon and One at Night

(Paul Newhouse.)

The basket-ball tournament which is to be held in Rushville on Saturday, February 24, is attracting much attention among the fans of this city. The high schools entered in the contest include Connersville, New Palestine, Milroy, Morristown, Greensburg, Shelbyville, Newcastle, and Rushville. Coach Masters has already received the new basket ball to be used in the tourney and awarded to the winning team after the final game. "Jumbo" Stiehm, Athletic mentor of Indiana University has been secured to referee a part of the play.

The games will start at 9:30 a. m. and continue through the day, with four in the morning, two in the afternoon, and the deciding game at night. Before the latter contest a curtain raiser will be played between two "fives" composed of "stars" on the defeated teams. Because of the personnel of the quintets this exhibition promises to be one of the most interesting features of the tournament.

A beautiful silver cup will be awarded to the winning team in addition to the basket-ball. This trophy will be secured at an early date and placed on display before the tourney. All the teams which are to participate in this contest have been playing good ball this season and for this reason some excellent games are expected in the fight for the cup.

New bleachers are being built to accommodate the crowd and every preparation is being made to entertain a large number of visitors.

GREENSBURG—10TH VICTORY

The Rushville high school basketball team secured its tenth victory of the present season when it defeated the quintet from Greensburg at the latter city on Friday evening, February 2.

Although the score was one-sided the game was exceedingly fast at times and always interesting. The Decatur county "five," handicapped by the absence of "Big Turner" at center, made a valiant attempt to overcome odds and retrieve their recent defeat in this city, but found themselves blocked at every turn by the scintillating play of the locals. The outcome of the game was never in doubt after the first few minutes of play.

Martin and Thorpe were the main point-makers for Rushville. The former contributed largely the first half and the captain "came back" in the second with several sensational shots. Reed, Rushville's star guard made six points and Oakley at both guard and forward displayed his usual "class."

EVENS UP OLD SCORE

The Rushville high school basketball team evened up many old scores last Friday night when it defeated the Shelbyville high school aggregation at Shelbyville by a count of 32 to 29. It was by far the hardest fought and best game ever played by the local boys and the result came as a big surprise to the Shelbyville fans. The Rushville lads proved that they still had the old fighting spirit by "coming back" in the last half and playing Shelbyville to a standstill.

The "Rushers" started the game by scoring the first point but this was soon evened up by the "Shelbyvillians." Throughout the first half the gold and black five had the edge on Rushville with the exception of a few minutes when the score was tied with 11 points for each team. The first half ended with the locals at the small end of a 19 to 13 count.

Indian Life Is Depicted

Princess Neawanna Relates Many Uncomplimentary Facts About Whites in Their Conquest

ORIGIN OF TRIBE NAMES

Speaker Explains They Come From Kind of Mocassins Worn—Urges Citizenship for Red Man

(Katherine Wyatt)

Indian life of the present and past was the subject of a lecture delivered by Neawanna, an Ojibwa Indian princess, on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 6, in the lower assembly room of the Graham building to the members of the junior and senior high school. The speech, postponed from Friday on account of the speakers' failure to reach Rushville, more than compensated the pupils for their disappointment at that time.

Neawanna appeared in native costume, a beautiful Indian dress, beaded and fringed. Many pretty strands of beads hung long about her neck. She delivered her speech with a poise and voice that made it highly fascinating.

"The name of each tribe is gotten from the kind of mocassin worn," said Neawanna. "The tribe of the Ojibwa is the oldest. Their first home was in Oklahoma, but later they moved into the Great Lake region, among the forests of Minnesota and Wisconsin."

The princess then told of how the Indians have been thought to be the lost tribes of Israel, and mentioned many interesting traditions of the origin of the different races.

She related many uncomplimentary facts concerning the whites in their conquest of the Red Man's country.

In explaining why the Indians were misunderstood, Neawanna asserted, "My people are called fierce because they paint their faces, but this is done as a protection against the wind and rain. They are called barbarous if they go out and fight the whites, when they are only fighting to protect their homes and families."

The princess prophesied a better nation if the Red Man should be given citizenship and should be allowed the freedom of the United States instead of being huddled together on the reservation of the west and southwest.

The speaker also mentioned at length the school at Carlisle, Penn., of which she is a graduate. "This school was the first organized for the education of the Red race," she said. "Although many others have arisen, Carlisle still remains the largest and best. At this school the girls learn domestic art, while the boys are taught all practical trades."

At the close of her lecture, the princess read a portion of Longfellow's, "Hiawatha," and an original poem, "The True American Man." As an encore to the latter she sang an Indian lullaby.

Neawanna had beautiful furs and Indian relics, which she displayed and explained. She spoke earlier in the afternoon to the grade pupils at the Annex Auditorium.

School Spirit.
(Harold Perkins.)

Many schools are noted for the spirit which makes their every function a success. A few are noted for the lack of this same spirit.

Shelbyville is perhaps one of the best examples of the first kind. There is no school activity there of any sort that is not patronized by at least six out of every ten students. To see less than seventy-five percent of the high school enrollment at a Shelbyville basket-ball game is so rare as to be almost impossible.

Now let us look at our own high school. If seventy-five students out of nearly two hundred witness a game here it is considered a good attendance. Our half-hearted support of a winning team has become a subject of unfavorable comment among teachers, students, and townspeople alike. Even when we attempt so small a demonstration as a "send-off" for the "five" only about half of the school responds, and these do so, for the most part, not so much to show their enthusiasm as to make some noise. Every one who ever attended this school, knows that what we need most, we have least—that is school-spirit. This is a serious lack.

It means that if it isn't increased, our school will soon be decreasing in enrollment and diminishing in efficiency until it will eventually become a habitual loser in all fields of inter-scholastic activity. It means further that the school will reach a "run-down" condition and become a second-rate institution hardly the equal of some of the neighboring township schools, where spirit has fostered efficiency.

In order to correct this weakness we must know the cause. Is it the faculty? Improbable. Our principal has given the students every opportunity for organizing themselves as a united body and displaying enthusiasm and they have failed to take advantage of these chances. The other teachers are helping in every way possible to arouse patriotism in the school. No, the faculty is not responsible. Perhaps, then, it is the schools representatives who are to blame for the lack of support they receive. This explanation is eliminated, however, when we consider them.

In oratory we have always ranked well and the same may be said of debating. Our present basket ball team has been beaten by only two opponents this year. What former such representatives are deserving of spirited support. This leaves but one plausible reason for our deplorable lack of enthusiasm. Are the students themselves to blame? I believe they are. Anyone after a little observation will understand that they are the cause of our listlessness and will realize, that there is no justification for their spiritless attitude.

We can recommend but one remedy, a plan which has succeeded in other schools, and which should prove effective here. Let the different classes organize as separate bodies and elect officers; let them meet at scheduled times and hold each member of their organization responsible for his or her share of the spirit necessary to make. A "real" high school; at each school function call attention to the class which is best represented and so stimulate each to make their class the most loyal of the four.

Should this plan fail we may expect to find, sooner or later, a "dead" school, containing few, if any, "live wires."

It is always going down hill that the brakes break.

To "Spend your money like a prince" is alluring, but the prince is sure of his job.

There's nothing that pays like looking wise and tending to your own business.

"Making good" is more profitable than making trouble.

Interview With a Princess.
(Katherine Todd.)

When Mr. Marlatt informed me that my request had been granted and that I was to obtain an introduction and an interview with the Princess Neawanna, I confess that I began to have a chilly feeling in the region of my feet. As I followed him into the office where the princess was to receive me I was impressed with the truth of the old adage "Distance lends enchantment to the view."

The personal appearance of the princess, however, had nothing to do with this impression. She was a typical Indian from the straight, blue-black hair and flashing eyes to the tips of her beaded moccasins. As I approached, she held out a slim, red hand to me, invited me to be seated and expressed her willingness to answer any question I might ask. But all the carefully prepared speeches I had concocted for the occasion had mysteriously left me; so after a little explanation of my mission and the paper I represented, I endeavored by more or less—mostly less—tactful questions to elicit some interesting information from her.

"I am Princess Neawanna, in English 'Sparkling Waters,'" she told me, "and I belong to the Algonquin division of the Ojibwa Indians. I practice the religion of my people, Catholicism and claiming my title by right of direct descent. I am the great grand daughter of the great chief of the Ojibwa Black Eagle, an Indian of national renown."

"I spent my childhood with my people," she responded in answer to a request for a summary of her life. "I spoke my native language almost altogether then and such English as I could command was but imperfect and halting. At the age of fifteen I went to Carlisle University with the intention of educating myself to be a teacher among my own people. When I graduated five years later, however, I found that lecturing was much more profitable and perhaps, indirectly, more helpful to my race. I have spent the entire four years since my graduation in lecturing and have been all through every state east of the Mississippi river and south of Mason and Dixon's line."

"By mathematical calculation I deduced that you are twenty-four," I remarked.

"Exactly" was the smiling rejoinder.

"And-er-unmarried?"

"Oh certainly"—as if I should have known without asking.

"I make a specialty of reciting," she went on in answer to my further queries, "especially the poems by and about the Indians. All my spare time is spent in reading. Poetry occupies a great deal of it since I do not care for prose. My favorite poet is Tennyson. I like Riley also, and have read many of his works but he can not compare, in my opinion with Tennyson."

When asked for her views on some important questions of the day, she said emphatically: "Liquor has been the cause of the downfall of my race. I shall welcome the day which brings nation-wide prohibition." Also: "The white woman occupies the same position as the Indian squaw. She is down trodden by men and is allowed to exist, but that's about all. I think women should have equal rights with men."

"Last of all," I asked, "how do you feel toward civilization? Would you like to go back to the old life?"

"Never!" she exclaimed. "I visit my people every summer; for I love them all; but I could not bear to go back to the life of the wigwam. I have received the civilization of the white man and I mean to keep it forever."

She spoke emphatically; and yet there was a something in her eye and voice which seemed to tell of smothered longings for the wild freedom of the forest and the smoky comfort of the tepee.

Orchestra Gives Good Program

High School Musical Organization Entertains Members of Senior High School With Selections.

GENEROUS APPLAUSE GIVEN

Although Organized During Present School Year, Orchestra Makes Commendable Progress.

(Syril Arbuckle.)

On the morning of February 8 the high school orchestra entertained the members of the senior high school with several selections from their rapidly increasing repertoire.

The pieces were "Panquita," a Mexican dance by Robyn, "Intermezzo Russe" by Franke and "Poor Butterfly" from the "big show" at the New York Hippodrome. The numbers were well received as was indicated by the generous applause. As an encore the musicians repeated the first chorus of "Poor Butterfly."

Although the orchestra has been organized during the present school year it has made highly commendable progress under the efficient leadership of Charles Ernest Parke, supervisor of music in the local schools.

The aggregation is composed of the following: piano, Dorothy Sparks; first violin, Mary Louise Wyatt, Lois Reeve, Janet Dean and Mildred Oenal; second violin, Edward Meredith; Clarinet, James Caldwell; cornet, Dwight VanOsdol; drums, Syril Arbuckle.

RED HOT STUFF

Beans.

What is life without a bean? Once upon a time, children used beans to snuff up their noses. They are now used by millionaires as jewelry.

My grandmother says that she can remember when they had beans three times a day and four days a week. Now we do well to get bean soup once a week. This delectable luxury is made by dragging half a dozen beans on a string through hot water; sometimes the string breaks, and then you find an occasional bean in the bowl.

But there are beans and beans. Besides soup beans there are butter beans, green beans, Roger Beans, and "Ivory beans."

My uncle speaks of his "green-backs" as beans. If he is correct in his terminology, my money must be of the Mexican jumping variety.

Indian beans are supposed to bring good luck, but fifteen soup beans will bring a fortune.

Green beans are harder to string than some people.

A cafe is where they serve real beans, while the place, where they have none, is called a "beanery."

Long live the bean!

Helen Dugan: (Wisely): "Why he gives him a little iron."

Mr. Masters: (Observing Neawanna): "Well, Marlatt, she's pretty, intellectual, and charming. Here's your chance."

Mr. Marlatt: (Confidently): "Just watch my smoke. It's not so absurd as you think. I always wanted a wife who would be 'well read' and it's perfectly possible for an 'Earl' to marry a 'Princess.'"

Hears Lecture On Newspaper

Class in Newspaper Writing Is Told What One Who Expects to Become Reporter Should do.

NO HARD AND FIXED RULES

Especially Trained Men Are Entering Work More—Preparation More Important Than Talent.

(Mary McCoy.)

"Essentials of success in reportorial work" was the subject of a lecture presented on Monday morning to the members of the Newspaper Writing class by Roy E. Harrold, the managing editor of the Rushville Daily Republican.

Mr. Harrold brought to his speech a facility of expression and a wealth of newspaper experience, which made it interesting as well as valuable to teacher and student alike. He emphasized especially the practical aspects of journalistic work and so contributed material not usually found in text books on the subjects.

Mr. Harrold's lecture was in short as follows:

"The duty of the reporter is to gather and write news. The gathering of news has a peculiar fascination since it puts him in touch with the joys and sorrows of life and gives him a conception of the motives that inspire the actions of people. In the writing of news, however, no hard and fixed rules are observed.

"The news reporter rises, not because of his talents, but on account of his training. A few years ago most reporters arose, from positions on their home newspaper to one in the city. But now most of them are instructed if they do well in metropolitan newspaper work.

"An ideal reporter must be ingenious, resourceful, honest and energetic. He must at no time place the paper in a bad light. He should be able to write accounts on short notice. He must endeavor to obtain information that is purposely withheld. He must be accurate. He should be able to tell who gives false and who gives true information. He should employ simplicity and terseness of expression in writing news.

"A news story should be told in the first paragraph, or, if possible, in the first sentence. There are two reasons for this: first, people may glance merely at the first part of the story; or space may make it necessary to 'cut off' part of it, and, if it has been told in this way the story will not seem incomplete. Paragraph should not exceed one hundred words.

"There are no fixed rules for writing, yet there are some practices that help the reporter. For instance, capitalized words, unless necessary, should not be used. It depends altogether upon the owner or managing editor as to what style is followed in the writing of the news."

Mr. Harrold had with him some examples of rules from the Indianapolis News and the department of journalism of the University of Wisconsin; from these he pointed out some "helps" for a beginner in newspaper work.

A Spirit of Love.

The first faint rays, of morning bright

Had crept across the sky;

But nature, saddened, saw no light And uttered low a sigh.

A youthful spirit, lithe and coy Saw natures lowered head

And vowed to give her light and joy Which seemed to be quite dead.

The spirit went from tree to flower In joy along his way

And stopped at every secret bower To leave a sunbeam's ray.

As nature then so cheerful grew Her praises soared above;

Wind wafted waves sincere and true To this kind spirit Love.

—Valeta Walton.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Clarence Cross entertained five tables at bridge yesterday afternoon at her home in North Perkins street. The guests included the members of the Pirate Club, Grand Club, and the Wednesday afternoon club. Valentine decorations were used in the different rooms and these colors also predominated in the refreshments which were served after an unusually pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. Roll Miller will entertain the S. E. T. club next Tuesday.

The Ladies Bible class will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. George Looney in North Main street. Lesson, Judges 4, 5 and 6 chapters.

A social is to be given for the Men's Bible class of the United Presbyterian church at the home of Wash Allen at 315 West Second street tomorrow evening. The class is taught by the Rev. J. T. Aikin.

The Young Ladies Missionary Circle of Glenwood met at the home of Miss Dorothy Davis Monday night. After the regular missionary program was over Miss Davis pleasantly entertained her guests with music and refreshments.

Mrs. Lee Thomas entertained the Thursday Afternoon Card Club this afternoon at her home in North Perkins street. There was an extra table of guests among whom was Mrs. VanMeter of Lexington, Ky., who is visiting Mrs. Warder Wyatt.

The C. W. B. M. of the Plum Creek church held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Thomas Ertle. After the business session the eighteen members enjoyed a Valentine contest, after which refreshments appropriate for Valentine day were served by the host.

Miss Laura Holden assisted by Miss Mary Anderson entertained about 16 members of the Psi Iota Xi last night at her home in East Seventh street. The first part of the evening was spent with business matters, after which a social period ensued. Refreshments, appropriate for Valentine Day were served by the hostesses.

The Wednesday Afternoon Club was entertained by Mrs. Clara Bebout yesterday afternoon at her home in North Perkins street. Aside from the twelve regular members, Mrs. Mary Cowing of Chicago was entertained. After a social period, a tempting one course luncheon was served. Valentine decorations predominated throughout the entire house.

Jake Osborne entertained several friends at his home in West First street last night with a Valentine party. The house was decorated with hearts and cupids, a color scheme also being carried out in the refreshments which were served after the social evening. Those who enjoyed the affair were the Misses Wilmina Doll, Nellie Faust, Mary Louise Dixon, Rena Rout and Mary Hughes, George Bennett, Russel Vansickle, Walter Faust, Raymond Holbrook, Paul Doll, Bert Offutt and Loyd Best of Connersville.

One of the most enjoyable parties of the season was given by the Sophomore Club of New Salem last night at the home of Mrs. M. O. Sefton, honoring the teachers and the pupils of that high school. Each Sophomore invited a guest thus making a large crowd who enjoyed the festivities of the evening. Contests and games, suggestive of Valentine Day were the most important feature of the evening. The house was decorated in hearts, cupids and flowers. A splendid two course luncheon was served. The Sophomores included the Misses Myrtle Sefton, Mable Stacey, Elsie Schrouse, Dorothy Beaver, Bertha Moore, Mary Roberts, Helen Jinks and Russell Logan, Franklin Morris, Riley Stewart, and Russell Dora.

That Thomas Hardy is without question the greatest living master of the English novel was the declaration of Dr. Jenkins of Indiana university at the meeting of the Shakespeare club in the court house last night. Dr. Jenkins reviewed the life and works of Hardy.

Dr. Jenkins said that Hardy is the transition from the Victorian to the contemporary novelist. The lecturer declared that Hardy studied architecture in his early life, which accounts for his architectural heroes and patternesque landscapes.

Dr. Jenkins said that Hardy's novel, "Desperate Remedies," is slightly amateurish in conception and execution, but suggestive of the latter Hardy. "A Pair of Blue Eyes," the lecturer said, shows a prodigious affectionate capacity.

"Hardy's girls have a way of reneging," continued the speaker. "Hardy's novels are a field day for the men. They marry and die readily in the Victorian novels. Hardy's plots are more or less absurd, but a powerful and ironic handling saves them. In powers of describing landscape, Hardy is incomparable."

In reviewing "Far From the Madding Crowd," Dr. Jenkins pointed to the fact that the women in Hardy's novels frequently take the initiative and in that respect they are scarcely contemporary. He said the plot is as sensational as an American best-seller.

Reviewing "The Hand of Ethelberta," the speaker said: "Ethelberta was very infectious. She attracted men as a magnet does iron filings, just infer that he died. There are so many demises that I can not discuss them all. Hardy prefers the trapezoid to the triangle in his stories."

Dr. Jenkins said "The Return of the Native" was distinguished by a chorus of peasants which in characterization is essentially Shakespearean. In Hardy, he said, there are always many men to one woman, and the heroine is always strictly neutral, being unable to make up her mind.

"It is Hardy's manner that is great in 'The Mayor of Casterbridge,'" the lecturer said. "It is the manner of a man who has iron in his system; the manner of a man who sees hell as Dante saw it. Elizabeth-Jane is one of Hardy's best portraits. She is not a pestilent 'O-Bey-Joyful' Pollyanna or an optimistic infant. If you can't be joyful be cheerful was her motto. But in the conclusion, the book is a real tragedy."

"The Woodland" excels in forest descriptions, Dr. Jenkins said. He declared that in this book the melodramatic pistol is most too prominent for art, but that it presents one of the most charming yet tragic romances in literature.

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles" is full of social doctrine, much as it was denied by Hardy, the speaker declared. He gave briefly an outline of the story:

"Alec is a very bad egg and betrays Tess. She realizes that her fall was due to ignorance and upbraids society because she did not know. Tess meets and marries Angel Claire. She confesses to him and he rejects her. Tess, left alone, meets Alec, who has become an evangelist. She returns to him and kills him when Angel Claire returns. The book ends when Angel and Tess's sister watch for the flutter of a flag which tells that Tess has been hanged. Conventionally Tess was intensely wicked, but in reality a 'pure woman.'"

Dr. Jenkins said the theme of "The Well-Beloved" was inconsistent with Hardy because here the man and not the woman is fickle. "Jude the Obscure," he asserted, is an indictment against the lack of democratic education in England.

We announce the new style in coats, suits and dresses for spring

What the fashion is and the unusual difficulties in being sure of it

We are now fully prepared to ring up the curtain on this before-the-season showing of the smart models for the spring '17.

Never has there been a style quite so difficult to be right about.

The beautiful new silhouette, youthful, clinging, demure, is one having a thousand subtleties.

It is so beautiful, so exacting—the slightest deviation misses the point altogether. No one without a keen appreciation of lines can imitate or stimulate the correct silhouette.

One must go to style headquarters, to authority, to master—or do without. And never was there such a demand for the correct Coats, Suits and Dresses. Therefore, you will appreciate our connection with The H. Black Company, of Woolltex fame, and scores of the foremost firms in New York City. This firm has searched the markets for the very best.

You, who understand and admire the finer points of beautiful designing and tailoring, will be delighted with this exhibition. It indeed constitutes a rare showing, marked by graceful lines and resourceful individuality.

We extend the most cordial invitation to you to try on and talk over these models.

Miss Phyllis Casady entertained a number of her girl friends with a pitch-in dinner last evening at her home in West Ninth street. The decorations were suggestive of Valentine Day. The following guests enjoyed a social evening over games and music: the Misses Elizabeth Pearson, Mary Louise Wyatt, Marguerite Kelly, Jeane Sparks, Josephine Scholl, Leatha Higgins and Helen Thomas.

Sixty members of the Dr. Gilbert class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school enjoyed a pleasant afternoon yesterday at the home of Mrs. Will Kirkpatrick when they were entertained with a Valentine social. Little cupids and hearts were used for decorations. The guests played Valentine games, one of the most enjoyable ones being shooting little cupids on a sheet with miniature bows and arrows. They were also expected to make poetry out of little candy hearts with words inscribed on them. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

One of the most brilliant affairs of the season was the dance given in the Phi Delta Kappa Hall last evening. The hall was appropriately decorated with Japanese lanterns and hearts, a color scheme of red being carried out throughout the entire hall. There were about 40 couples in attendance, those from out of the city being Clarence Smith, Chester Quyle, Fred Fiddler and Miss Lillian Hascott of Connersville, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharp, Mrs. Williams, the Misses Robinson and Higman of Newcastle and Miss Ethel Vestal of Knightstown, and Miss Hazel Price and Ray Bird of Shelbyville.

Punch and light refreshments were served between dances.

The members of the U. Go I. Go club, were entertained Friday evening at the hospitable country home of Mr. and Mrs. James Oneal southeast of the city, with a pitch-in supper. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher and daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. James Stiers, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Logan, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson and children, Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Wilson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Logan, Mrs. Mary Poston and children, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilks and children. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elsa Hilgoss, Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Wiley and three girls, Miss Bessie Padgett, Dorothy and John Beaver.

Sharp and children, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walkendorf, William Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Trennepohl and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Trennepohl and son, Mrs. Herbert Gilson and daughter, Mrs. Lucy Trennepohl and Miss Gladys Creagor. The regular meeting of the W. R. C. was held yesterday afternoon with twenty-two members and officers present. The next meeting promises to be quite interesting. It will be held on Feb. 22 in the assembly room of the court house when the members will observe Washington's birthday with a special program.

Miss Pansy Newhouse entertained the members of her Sunday school class of the Christian church last night. The evening was spent with contests and games, John Joyce being awarded the prize in the contest for finding the most hearts. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Valentine suggestions were also carried out in these.

Tells how to loosen a sore, tender corn so it lifts out without pain.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the ether discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

MITCHELL WILL HAVE MATERIAL

If New Cub Boss Has Nothing Else he Will Have Plenty of Ball Players

DEPENDS ON NEW MANAGER

Predicts Improvement Over Last Season—Fifteen Men Want Pitching Jobs

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 15.—What the Cubs will amount to in 1917 is pretty well up to Fred Mitchell, the new manager.

Joe Tinker took the combined Chicago Cubs and the old Cubs in 1916 and all the critics placed his team 1-2-3. They were lucky to finish in the league. Catcher Archer developed fragile digits and was of little use. The old pitchers had dead wings and a good many of the players seemed dead from the neck up. Joe had a tough job and finally gave it up.

The Cubs will leave for their training camp at Pasadena, California, next Tuesday. Several weeks will be spent conditioning at this resort, which is the winter home of William Wrigley, part owner of the club.

Mitchell is credited with a great deal of the success attained by George Stallings with the Boston Braves, but the most enthusiastic follower of the club knows he faces a Herculean task.

"The Cubs this season should be a great improvement over last season, for in Mitchell I have one of the most able leaders in the country," said President Weegham today. "He is very progressive and constructive and knows how to handle the players. With the addition of Al Demaree and a few youngsters the pitching staff will shape up to be one of the best in the country.

"Although I do not wish to predict a pennant, I believe the Cubs will be in the fight all the way and will finish in the first division."

One of the greatest problems for Mitchell will be his catching staff. Archer is slipping. Art Wilson of Federal league fame had a poor time last season but may come back. Rowdy Elliot, the pudgy youngster from the coast league, showed up well last season and many pin faith on him to become a first string catcher. Bill Dillhoefer, obtained from Milwaukee in the draft, is hailed as a second Ray Schalk.

The slump of Vic Saier at first is believed by many to have been only temporary. Fred Mollwitz and Edward McGinnis, the latter from the sand lots of Boston, are candidates for Saier's job.

Larry Doyle's case is causing local fans much worry. The custodian of the keystone sack broke his leg soon after he came here. Steve Yerkes will be Doyle's understudy.

Mitchell has four youngsters who will try to fill the hole at shortstop. Bill Wortman did well during the last few months last summer. He came from Kansas City with a great rep., but his hitting was minus. The others are Frank Murphy, a semi-pro of Joliet, Ill., Arthur Shap, a Boston sand lotter and Harry Wolfe, drafter from Duluth.

Charlie Deal, who played third base for the Braves in 1914, later flopping to the Feds, may be given a regular berth at his old position. Another possibility for this job is Herb Hunter, obtained from the Giants in the Zimmerman trade. Rollie Zeider will take care of the utility role.

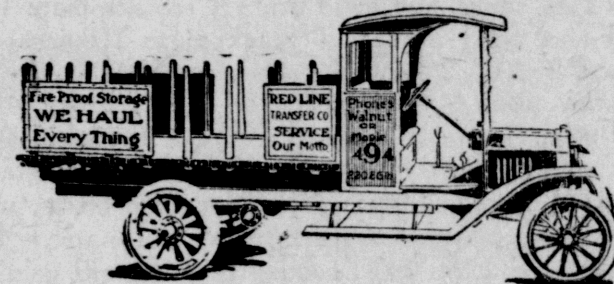

Mitchell has a wealth of outfield material. Cy Williams, the elongated star, will be seen again in center field. Leslie Mann is the strongest candidate for left field. Max Flack, a hold over from the Feds, will be another outfield candidate. Harry Wolter, once of the New York Yan-

TO STANDARDIZE HOSE FITTING

Fire Marshall May Introduce Bill Providing For Uniformity in Cities.

NEWCASTLE FIRE CITED

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—Standardization of fire hose fittings and couplings in all cities in Indiana is being urged by State Fire Marshall William Longley and it is probable that he will ask the legislature to pass a law setting the diameters of couplings and the number of threads to the inch.

It is practically useless, in case of a serious fire for one city to call on another for aid, according to Longley on account of the wide variation in size of couplings used by the different cities, at present.

An instance of this was had when the Union block at Newcastle was destroyed recently, according to Longley. Appeals for aid were sent to Muncie. Although the fire was under control when the Muncie apparatus arrived, they would have been unable to give any assistance because of the difference in size of couplings.

Too Bad, But---

Yes, it is too bad the ink was spilled on that pretty centerpiece, and it would be equally bad to have it spilled on the table cloth or on a garment. But it is not so serious as it would have been if you didn't have a first-class cleaning establishment to take it to.

A spot such as this doesn't worry our workers in the least. They know how to take it out and make the article, apparently ruined, look like new.

Bring the results of your ink accident to us. Ours is a first aid establishment in cases of this character.

FARMER LAW BODY OPPOSES GRAIN MEN

North Dakota's Legislature Favors Terminal Elevator and Open Fight Expected.

EXPECT OPEN DISAPPROVAL

(By United Press.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 15.—While North Dakota's farmer legislature today argued for the establishment of a terminal elevator at St. Paul, a rival of this city, the national annual convention of the Farmers' Grain Dealers association, which is not in sympathy with the farmers' political movement, met here for a two day session.

The Non Partisan league, the political organization that gained complete control of the North Dakota administration this year, never has taken the Farmers' Grain Dealers association to its bosom. Instead, the farmers of the Northwest have been taught by the Equity association, the marketing force behind the Non Partisan league, that the Farmers' Grain Dealers association is controlled by the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, against whom the wrath of the Non Partisan league is primarily aimed.

Open disapproval of the elevator men to the proposed terminal elevator plans at St. Paul, may be expressed at the sessions this afternoon.

HOOSIER PESTS.

BY R. E. SNODGRASS.
(Written for United Press.)

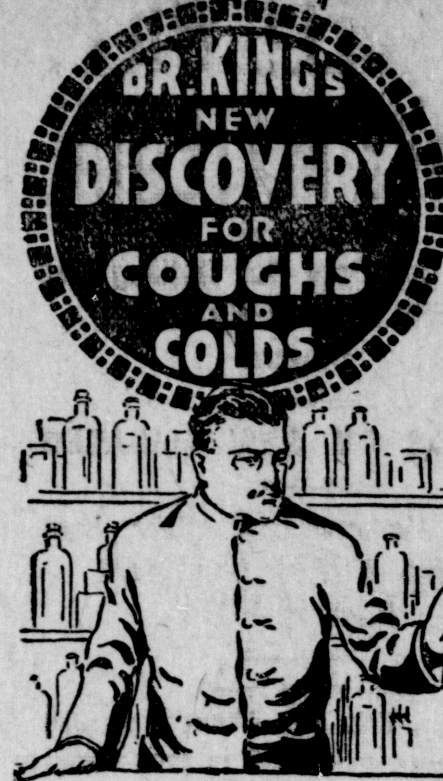

Most housekeepers know how disgusting it is to open a package of pancake flour and find it full of small brown beetles to discover the corn meal infested with worms that have massed the grains together with their web, or the flour inhabited with small, blackish weevils. There are sixteen species of insects which may infest the pantry shelf and feed on all kinds of dry vegetable food stuffs except sugar.

If you find a new package of cereal or cakes infested, return it at once to the dealer who is always glad to take back such damaged goods. But if the pests appear in food material that you have had for some time, either burn it up or feed it to the chickens who will appreciate the bugs as an extra relish. When you have discovered one infested package, examine everything else you have for the insects generally spread.

If the pests are the young of moths, the latter are likely to be hiding in cracks and corners of the pantry ready to lay their eggs and produce more worms after you have destroyed those already present. If they are beetles, some of them may be concealed in crevices or wandering about the shelves looking to get into a new package. Therefore it is advisable to fumigate the pantry with sulphur.

First remove all silverware or any metal objects that might be corroded by the fumes and all liquid or moist food. Use one-fourth ounce sulphur candle for every 125 cubic feet of space. Cover the bottom of an old dish pan with wet sand or earth and set the candles on this. Light the candles and keep the pantry closed for six hours or more.

But better than all remedy is prevention. All meals, cereals and other foods should be kept in tight containers.

Those who have used it longest are its best friends. It gives grateful relief in stubborn coughs and colds. Try it.

MAPLE SYRUP ABOUT DUE

Preparations Being Made to Open Camps in State.

Bluffton Ind. Feb. 15.—Preparations are being made for the annual harvest of maple syrup on Indiana's largest maple syrup camp, north of this city. Harry Studebaker, owner of the camp stated that prospects indicate a larger crop this year than has been procured for several seasons.

Fourteen hundred trees of the twenty-eight hundred on the farm will be tapped. The average harvest is 500 gallons. The largest was in 1910 when 556 gallons were procured. The camp is usually in operation about seven weeks each year.

The camp was founded in 1885 with 500 trees and two large iron kettles in which to boil the sap into syrup.

TIME TO TRIM VINES.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—Frank N. Wallace, state entomologist, today advised grape growers to trim their vines before the sap swells the buds this spring. February or March is considered the best time by those who make a success of grape growing.

"The person who has a few vines should prune and care for the vines the same as the ones with an acre or more," stated Wallace. "As a rule twenty or thirty buds are enough to leave on strong growing varieties."

Price of this Chalmers today, $1090

Price beginning March 1st, $1250

Net Saving, $160

YES, THIS IS THE CAR

A 5-passenger beauty, saves you $160, if bought today

Not all people prefer this kind of car. Perhaps only eight out of ten people do.

To make sure that it will suit you and yours, come and let an experienced and highly intelligent man show you some of the many things that stand out and make a Chalmers a Chalmers.

Take the Motor, for Example

It is the most famous and most used of all Chalmers motors. It has high power capacity.

That, certainly, is a logical and extremely sensible type of motor to own. It is never under a strain. At 45 and 50 miles an hour it is using only a part of its power.

It Saves Itself

And in so doing, saves many a dollar. Conservation of energy means conservation of fuel.

Watch your gasoline bills go down when you drive this Chalmers!

Better see the motor first. It is the most important thing. But in your enthusiasm, don't miss one other feature:—the dimensions of the body. There are four inches more room in the front compartment than you really need, and eight inches surplus leg room in the rear compartment.

Note the rear seat cushion. It is three inches wider than it needs to be. Every dimension in the body seems decidedly generous.

These Are Mere Hints, However!

It would be quite impossible to describe the 6-30 5-passenger Chalmers, and you have no way of knowing whether this Chalmers suits you without seeing it.

That makes necessary a trip to the Chalmers salesroom!

If this Chalmers does suit you, then you won't have to be reminded of the $160 saving—the item is far too important.

The 2-passenger Chalmers roadster, built on the same chassis, advances, in price $180 on March 1.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

MURDERER TO FACE THE FIRING SQUAD

Given Choice of Hanging or Shooting he Elects to be Shot—is Utah Law.

WILL PAY PENALTY FRIDAY

(By United Press.)

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 15.—Convicted of murder and given his choice of being hanged or shot to death, Orazio Rapole, Italian farm hand who killed his employer in a quarrel over a horse, elected to be shot and will die at the hands of a firing squad here Friday morning. He is to be shot to death by a firing squad at Utah state penitentiary. Rapole killed Amos B. Neff, ranchman, at the latter's home in East Mill Creek, June 26, 1916, using a shotgun.

Following the shooting Rapole fled across the hills and was captured at Park City. Following his conviction of first degree murder, a motion for a new trial was entered by newly retained counsel on the contention that attorneys who defended Rapole were under the influence of intoxicants at the time of the trial, Judge Morse, after having the motion under advisement two weeks overruled it and sentenced the convicted man to be executed.

WOULD SEGREGATE BLACKS AND WHITES

Influx of Southern Negroes in Chicago Leads to Move on Part of Real Estate Men.

FOLLOW ACTION OF ST. LOUIS

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Solution of the race segregation problem, made acute in recent months by the steady influx of southern negroes, is the aim of action taken today by representatives of the owners of 50,000 of the 100,000 better class apartments in Chicago. Segregation statutes, similar to the ones in force in St. Louis, will be invoked.

"We believe the interests of Chicago demand that white people shall not encroach upon the colored or the colored upon the white," I. O. Ackley, a member of the committee appointed to perfect plans for immediate action, said. "Therefore we strongly urge the segregation of the races."

"Action taken recently in St. Louis has been decreed constitutional by the Supreme court. It is perhaps the greatest piece of racial legislation since the fourteenth amendment."

The real estate men have also determined upon May 1 as the date for a general 15 per cent increase in all Chicago rentals.

MAY MEAN WITHDRAWAL

(By United Press.)

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 15.—An order construed to mean that all of the national guardsmen on the border will be withdrawn soon has been issued by General Funston. The order directs that men on leave or furlough will be ordered to report to their home department commanders for muster out.

Five Big Things To Remember When Buying A GAS TRACTOR

WORK AND ENDURANCE (NOT PRICE) DETERMINES VALUE:

The design of the tractor, the material of which it is built, and the company building it determines the work it will do, and how long it will last.

CASE HAS BUILT FOR THE FARMER SINCE 1842:

Next year we celebrate our Seventy-fifth Birthday. Three-quarters of a Century—Think of it! We have lived and prospered only because we have made machinery that has made good with its users.

CASE BUILDS 97% OF ALL PARTS USED IN CASE TRACTORS:

As a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a tractor is no stronger than its weakest part. With 97% Case-made and the other 3% subject to Case Laboratory tests, you can rely absolutely on the genuineness of every part of Case Tractors.

STANDING OF THE CONCERN WHOSE TRACTOR YOU BUY:

You cannot take the tractor down, piece by piece, and see every part. For most of it you have to take some one's word. Let the reputation of the company be your guide to those things which you cannot see.

WHICH TRACTORS WILL BECOME ORPHANS:

A leading agricultural paper one year ago said—"The good tractors can be counted on the fingers of one hand." There were more than 100 different makes. Now there are even more. With any Case machine you can always be sure of service. Remember our forty-four big branch houses throughout the country. "Better be Safe than Sorry."

Potatoes Easy to Cook In Variety of Ways and Have Food Value

The general use of potatoes in the average family and the better customs prevailing in many homes in preparing the tubers for food are based on sound economic and dietetic reasons, according to specialists of the Office of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Studies of the preparation and use of potatoes as food are reported in Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 468, recently issued.

Potatoes are easy to cook in a variety of ways. From the point of view of dietetics, they furnish starch in one readily digestible form, contain mineral substances of importance to the body, and—a fact less generally known—tend to make the tissues and fluids of the body alkaline, so counteracting the tendency of meats, eggs, fish and like foods to create acid conditions. Since the body does its work best when its condition is either neutral or slightly alkaline, potatoes, like most vegetables, perform an important function in the diet besides furnishing energy-producing material. This scientific fact justifies the custom that is prevalent in many families of serving a goodly supply of potatoes or other vegetables with each helping of meat.

Potatoes, however, while a valuable addition to a mixed diet, alone are not suited to meet the needs of the body because of their poverty in proteins and fat. Of these latter important elements protein is furnished in meats, eggs, fish, milk, beans, and similar foods, and fat in butter, bacon, table oils, and the fats and oils used in cookery.

Greater care than commonly is exercised should be taken in peeling potatoes. Very often 20 per cent of the potato is pared away. This results not only in the waste of considerable potato but also in the loss of one of the most valuable portions of the tuber, since the soluble mineral salts are present in the material near the skin, which would be removed and thrown away. These salts can be preserved by a more careful removal of the skin, as by shallow paring or rubbing, and also by boiling or baking the potatoes in their jackets.

Paring before boiling, however, may be the most desirable method of cooking potatoes which through an undue exposure to light may have acquired a bitter taste; or those which have been kept until late in the spring, since in this way more of the disagreeable flavor is eliminated. Such potatoes may also be soaked before cooking.

While these methods may be desirable with potatoes which have been exposed to light, they result in the loss of considerable food value without compensating advantages when applied to new or well-matured potatoes. If such potatoes are boiled after paring, they should be dropped into boiling water instead of being placed on the stove in cold water. By the latter method there is twice the loss of protein, or tissue-building elements, resulting from the former. The loss of mineral matter is about the same each method. There is no loss of starchy materials in boiling unless portions of the tuber break off.

Practically the only loss when potatoes are baked in their skins is of the water which escapes as steam. The more or less common custom of pricking holes in the skin of baked potatoes or breaking them is explained by the fact that unless the steam which is formed inside the skin is allowed to escape it will change back into water and produce soggy potatoes.

Potatoes which have turned green and sprouting tubers have present a considerable quantity of solanine, an acrid poisonous substance which though not dangerous in the quantities ordinarily met with, gives a disagreeable flavor. It is best, therefore, to avoid such potatoes or to cut out green or sprouting portions.

HAD TO LOWER AMERICAN FLAG OVER LEGATION AT BRUSSELS

American Minister to Belgium Compelled to Take Down Flag, State Department is Informed

RELATIONS BADLY STRAINED

Latest Action of Germany Viewed
as Possibly Open Affront, Combined With Sinking Schooner

RELIEF WORKERS "DETAINED"

Refusal to Allow Minister to Communicate With Own Government Makes it More Grave

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 15.—Relations with Germany and the Teutonic allies were stretched to the snapping point today when this government received positive confirmation that Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium had been forced to lower the Stars and Stripes from the American legation at Brussels.

This confirmation brought Germany and the United States nearer to open hostility than any event since President Wilson broke off diplomatic relations with the kaiser. Officials viewed the act as a possible open affront.

This latest case is made more grave, officials said, in view of additional information that Whitlock is now refused communication with his home government and Belgian relief workers are "being detained."

While officials would not discuss the case, it was hinted that as soon as more facts are in hand, this government may make pre-emptory demands upon Germany to explain without delay.

Coming as the incident does on the heels of the sinking of American vessel in the Mediterranean in violation of the law as construed by the United States government, heavy blows were struck at the small lingering hope of the president that hostilities between United States and Germany might be avoided.

Ambassador Gerard reported officially to the state department that Germany had tried to force him to have the 1799 treaty re-ratified under penalty of holding American newspaper men as hostages.

Official reports of the sinking of the American schooner Lyman M. Law in the Mediterranean by an Austrian submarine added only slightly to the tension, for while the act is believed to have been illegal, no lives were lost and the vessel apparently was warned. The incident was not looked upon as one in itself sufficient to hurry the development of the situation.

Preliminary reports began coming to government departments showing the piling up about the Atlantic seaboard of goods destined for export to European ports. No serious effect from this condition will be felt, however, until lapse of sufficient time for ships remaining in American ports to have gone to Europe and returned. While only approximately 10 per cent of American commerce with Europe is carried on American ships, the sailing of vessels of other nationalities in many instances have either been cancelled or postponed, and, therefore, the result of the ruthless submarine campaign in time will result in far-reaching disturbance of the industrial life of the United States.

Preparations by the government for any eventualities still are going forward without interruption. Much importance is attached to the work of the council of national defense, which is holding daily sessions for the purpose of learning at first-hand from Americans of experience what provision must be made to co-ordinate American resources. Officials Warn Against a Dual Berlin Menace

(CARL W. ACKERMAN)

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, Feb. 15.—Warning against the dual menace of German submarine activity in American waters and of German peace propaganda which may in reality be a play for time is being sounded today by American officials familiar with the real situation in Berlin.

Germany's attempt to negotiate the issue of her unlimited submarine order through the Swiss legation while Ambassador Gerard was still in Berlin is regarded with suspicion. The move is viewed as an attempt to forestall action by United States until Germany can make such disposition of her submarines as will enable her to strike with her U-boats should open hostilities develop.

The maneuver having failed, it is no surprise to American officials to hear that Germany has now repudiated the efforts of the Swiss minister.

These suggestions for negotiations are regarded solely as having been an expedient to gain time while the German finance peace movement in America could get into action.

York, was again before the council, furnishing information gained from experience as head of his firm's huge transactions in war orders for the entente allies.

HALIFAX NEW PORT OF CALL

Will in Measure Defeat Purposes of German Submarine Blockade

(By United Press.)

New York, Feb. 15.—The British admiralty has designated Halifax as the port of call for neutral ships leaving American ports instead of Kirkwall, it was learned today.

The announcement was received with the greatest enthusiasm at the offices of neutral steamship companies which began immediate preparation for renewal of sailings.

Kirkwall is in the danger zone marked off by Germany in her recent submarine order. By being able to stop at Halifax for examination, the vessels can take a course far north of the submarine barrier and in a measure defeat the purposes of the blockade.

Rep. Gardner Demands Merchant-
men be Provided With Armament

Washington, Feb. 15.—Representative Gardner, Massachusetts, today called upon the government to furnish armament for American merchant ships. He declared that if armament is not given American merchant fleet, then the navy department could furnish convoys.

Gardner denounced William Jennings Bryan for conducting a campaign that "appeals to the cowardice which lurks in every man's breast—a cowardice which is the result of the strongest of human instincts—the instinct of self preservation."

"The Bryan followers are the pacifists, who place loyalty to Germany ahead of the United States."

INJURIES IN FALL TODAY MAY BE FATAL

Pinkney Dearing Suffers Slight
Concussion When he Topples
Off Building at Case Mill.

Pinkney Dearing, a well known carpenter of this city, was seriously and perhaps fatally hurt this morning in a fall from a building under course of construction at the Case mill. Mr. Dearing fell a distance of thirty feet, landing on his head and shoulders. He suffered a slight concussion and the exact extent of his injuries may not be known for some time.

Mr. Dearing's fall was checked by a scaffolding, but after hitting this he continued to drop an additional twenty feet. He probably would have been killed instantly but for the scaffolding. He suffered great pain after regaining consciousness. He was removed to his home, 841 North Harrison street. Mr. Dearing was helping build the building at the Case mill and in some manner lost his balance. The point from which he fell was about thirty feet from the ground. In falling he struck the scaffolding a glancing blow, resulting in injury to his chest.

DECIDE TO HOLD FAIR THIS YEAR

Directors Reach Decision Today and Announce Radical Changes
in Management

FAMILY TICKETS ABOLISHED

Stockholders' Tickets to be Limited
to Individual Stockholders—
Premium List Revised

Showing a change of opinion from the last meeting, the board of directors of the Rush County Fair association, today voted to hold the annual event this year. The date was definitely established, the local fair taking the first week following the state fair, which is the week of September 11.

At the last meeting the board of directors almost to a man was opposed to holding the fair this year, but one director stated "that the people of Rush county would be given another chance to support a home industry." Radical changes in the rules and regulations were made at the meeting today, making the session one of the most important held by the fair board in recent years.

The rule providing for the issuance of family tickets for the sum of $1.50 was abolished. The directors also voted to confine the stockholder's tickets to the individual stockholders only, cutting out their families.

The directors took the position that the family tickets alone detracted from the receipts sufficiently to have made last year's fair a success. It was stated that the people took advantage of these tickets and did not confine them to their own families but took into the grounds other people. The families of stockholders will be required to pay an admission fee along with the rest of the people if they are to see this year's event.

These two changes in the rules have been contemplated for several years, but many of the older directors always prevented their passage. Nine members of the board of directors attended the meeting and immediately set about to make the changes which they believe will insure the success of the fair. The first business was the decision to hold the fair. The other changes followed in rapid order.

The board took a united stand in an effort to stop all leaks and the matter of passes was considered one of the greatest. The fair board was in session until a late hour this afternoon rearranging the premium lists. The premium will be revised, cutting out some that are not necessary, but in no way detracting from the fair as a whole.

The superintendents of the various departments were named as follows: Speed—Will King and Ad Denning. Draft horses—H. E. Daubenspeck. General purpose horses—J. F. Cross. Light harness—Everett Piper. Cattle—W. A. Norris.

Hogs and Sheep—Guy Gordon. Poultry—J. M. Cross. Mechanical department—A. L. Stewart.

Agriculture—A. T. Junkin. Art and fancy work—W. A. Alexander. Stalls—William Dagler.

A committee was appointed to look after the grounds and report on the advisability of changing the gates. The board went on record as favoring a system of turnstiles to further the effort to stop the leaks.

The last of the city's first two cars of coal was hauled this morning. Another car was expected today but failed to arrive, although the bill for the car has been received. The city officials had hoped the car would arrive so as not to interrupt the hauling, but were again due to disappointment. It was stated this afternoon that the car would surely be here in the morning. The car will be located the same place the first two cars were, on the siding at the water and light plant.

SUIT FOR $10,000 DAMAGES STARTS

Cecil K. Marshall Asserts Injury to
His Hand Was Due to Negligence of Bakery Owner

BERT ORME IS DEFENDANT

Understood Defense Will Attempt to Show Plaintiff Was Not in Condition to Work

The $10,000 damage suit of Cecil K. Marshall of Richland township against Bert Orme, started today before a jury in circuit court. The action is based on a personal injury sustained by Marshall while working for Orme in a bakery in this city. The accident occurred in December, 1913. Marshall sustained a badly mangled right hand when he caught it in a dough mixer.

Marshall was the first witness to testify. His cross-examination was started shortly after the noon recess. Marshall alleges negligence on the part of Orme in not providing the proper guards. It is understood that Orme will contend that the accident was due entirely to the carelessness of Marshall and from the questions asked Marshall it is believed an attempt will be made to show that he was up late the night before the accident and was not in condition to work on the morning the accident occurred.

The accident occurred on Sunday morning. Marshall claims to be permanently injured. His injured hand was exhibited to the jury. The plaintiff is represented by Samuel L. Trabue and Tittsworth and Oneal, while Orme is represented by Kiplinger and Smith. The case will probably require two days. The jury is as follows: Peter S. Hollowell, James Foster, James M. Cross, George Whissing, William Bliss, James A. Dill, S. L. Hodge, Edgar Logan, T. G. Bassell, Walter Patton, Sam Young and Edson Eakin.

An agreement was reached yesterday afternoon in the claim of Mary A. Heaton against the estate of her brother, the late Riley Stewart, whereby Mrs. Heaton was given a judgment for $90. The jury was discharged and the court permitted to enter the judgment by agreement. Mrs. Stewart demanded $125.

The damage suit of Edward Guttman against Lincoln Gruell was dismissed and the costs paid. Guttman demanded $500. The suit was based on an automobile accident occurring last summer east of the city.

By agreement several judgments on claims were entered against the estate of the late Theodore Gregg. The Knecht Clothing Company was allowed $15.50; O. C. Norris $83.25 on one claim and $113 on another and Sue Gregg, $70.

Committee Arranging For District
Meeting Finds Gen. Hackle-
man Started Order Here

GREAT FRIEND OF COLFAX

Believed That Rebekah Lodge Here
Was First One Started in
United States

An historic fact, not generally known in relation to the Rebekah degree in this city, has been discovered by the committee in charge of the district meeting to be held here February 22. The Rebekah degree was adopted in Baltimore, September 20, 1851, the ritual being prepared by Schyler Colfax of Indiana. P. A. Hackleman, afterwards a general, losing his life at Corinth, Miss., in the service of his country, was present at this meeting.

Seven days later, Sept. 27, 1851, the records of Franklin lodge show that a special meeting was held and "P. A. Hackleman being present conferred the Rebekah degree lately adopted by the grand lodge of the United States upon six brothers." It thus appears that the degree was presented in the lodge room still in use by the same lodge, for the first time in any lodge.

This incident is expected to create quite an interest among the visitors here next week. Schyler Colfax and P. A. Hackleman were great friends and worked strenuously for the admission of wives and daughters of Odd Fellows into the order. In 1850 Colfax brought in a minority report at the session of the grand lodge of the United States signed by himself alone in favor of such action and after a spirited debate carried it by a vote of 46 to 28 and he, with Martin of Mississippi and Stelle of Tennessee were appointed to prepare the ritual, which duty Colfax personally performed. The ritual was adopted the next year.

The close association of Colfax and Hackleman probably accounts for the promptness with which Gen. Hackleman proceeded to introduce the work in Rushville. He probably started the work following his return from Baltimore as at that time the journey was not so quickly accomplished as now.

The first ladies were admitted here November 26 of the same year. Among the names of the first Rebekahs familiar to the present generation were Mrs. O. C. Hackleman, Mrs. Porter, Lewis Maddux, R. A. Cox, Norvil W. Cox and Charles Sherman. The degree at that time was given in the subordinate lodge of Odd Fellows, a separate lodge, not being instituted here until 1874. The only charter members of which are now living are Edwin Farrer and V. C. Bodine.

From this early beginning the Rushville lodge has progressed until now it has 200 members with a splendidly equipped lodge room. Its degree staff of 25 members confers the degree in spectacular manner with orchestral accompaniment.

The connection of P. A. Hackleman with the early history of the order is especially interesting at this time, as there is pending in the legislature a bill to appropriate a sum for a statue to him in this city. The members are especially anxious for this bill to pass.

Zack Gordon, who was severely burned on the right foot by electricity while working on the Big Four bridge south of the city is getting along as well as could be expected. The burn on the foot has been slow to heal. A piece of skin three inches in circumference was taken from the calf of his leg and grafted to the wounded part. Basketball Tournament Which Will be Played Here Saturday, Feb. 24, Excites Interest

Games Will Start at 9:30 A. M. With Four in Morning, Two in Afternoon and One at Night

(Paul Newhouse.)

The basketball tournament which is to be held in Rushville on Saturday, February 24, is attracting much attention among the fans of this city. The high schools entered in the contest include Connersville, New Palestine, Milroy, Morristown, Greensburg, Shelbyville, Newcastle, and Rushville. Coach Masters has already received the new basketball to be used in the tourney and awarded to the winning team after the final game. "Jumbo" Stiehm, Athletic mentor of Indiana University has been secured to referee a part of the play.

The games will start at 9:30 a. m. and continue through the day, with four in the morning, two in the afternoon, and the deciding game at night. Before the latter contest a curtain raiser will be played between two "fives" composed of "stars" on the defeated teams. Because of the personnel of the quintets this exhibition promises to be one of the most interesting features of the tournament.

A beautiful silver cup will be awarded to the winning team in addition to the basketball. This trophy will be secured at an early date and placed on display before the tourney.

All the teams which are to participate in this contest have been playing good ball this season and for this reason some excellent games are expected in the fight for the cup.

New bleachers are being built to accommodate the crowd and every preparation is being made to entertain a large number of visitors.

GREENSBURG—10TH VICTORY

The Rushville high school basketball team secured its tenth victory of the present season when it defeated the quintet from Greensburg at the latter city on Friday evening, February 2.

Although the score was one-sided the game was exceedingly fast at times and always interesting. The Decatur county "five," handicapped by the absence of "Big Turner" at center, made a valiant attempt to overcome odds and retrieve their recent defeat in this city, but found themselves blocked at every turn by the scintillating play of the locals. The outcome of the game was never in doubt after the first few minutes of play.

Marlin and Thorpe were the main point-makers for Rushville. The former contributed largely the first half and the captain "came back" in the second with several sensational shots. Reed, Rushville's star guard made six points and Oakley at both guard and forward displayed his usual "class."

EVENS UP OLD SCORE

The Rushville high school basketball team evened up many old scores last Friday night when it defeated the Shelbyville high school aggregation at Shelbyville by a count of 32 to 29. It was by far the hardest fought and best game ever played by the local boys and the result came as a big surprise to the Shelbyville fans. The Rushville lads proved that they still had the old fighting spirit by "coming back" in the last half and playing Shelbyville to a standstill.

The "Rushers" started the game by scoring the first point but this was soon evened up by the "Shelbyvillians." Throughout the first half the gold and black five had the edge on Rushville with the exception of a few minutes when the score was tied with 11 points for each team. The first half ended with the locals at the head end of a 19 to 13 count.

Princess Neawanna Relates Many Uncomplimentary Facts About Whites in Their Conquest

ORIGIN OF TRIBE NAMES

Speaker Explains They Come From Kind of Moccasins Worn—Urges Citizenship for Red Man

(Katherine Wyatt)

Indian life of the present and past was the subject of a lecture delivered by Neawanna, an Ojibwa Indian princess, on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 6, in the lower assembly room of the Graham building to the members of the junior and senior high school. The speech, postponed from Friday on account of the speakers' failure to reach Rushville, more than compensated the pupils for their disappointment at that time.

Neawanna appeared in native costume, a beautiful Indian dress, beaded and fringed. Many pretty strands of beads hung long about her neck. She delivered her speech with a poise and voice that made it highly fascinating.

"The name of each tribe is gotten from the kind of moccasin worn," said Neawanna. "The tribe of the Ojibwa is the oldest. Their first home was in Oklahoma, but later they moved into the Great Lake region, among the forests of Minnesota and Wisconsin."

The princess then told of how the Indians have been thought to be the lost tribes of Israel, and mentioned many interesting traditions of the origin of the different races.

She related many uncomplimentary facts concerning the whites in their conquest of the Red Man's country.

In explaining why the Indians were misunderstood, Neawanna asserted, "My people are called fierce because they paint their faces, but this is done as a protection against the wind and rain. They are called barbarous if they go out and fight the whites, when they are only fighting to protect their homes and families."

The princess prophesied a better nation if the Red Man should be given citizenship and should be allowed the freedom of the United States, instead of being huddled together on the reservation of the west and southwest.

The speaker also mentioned at length the school at Carlisle, Penn., of which she is a graduate. "This school was the first organized for the education of the Red race," she said. "Although many others have arisen, Carlisle still remains the largest and best. At this school the girls learn domestic art, while the boys are taught all practical trades."

At the close of her lecture, the princess read a portion of Longfellow's, "Hiawatha," and an original poem, "The True American Man." As an encore to the latter she sang an Indian lullaby.

Neawanna had beautiful furs and Indian relics, which she displayed and explained. She spoke earlier in the afternoon to the grade pupils at the Annex Auditorium.

..Views and Interviews..

School Spirit.
(Harold Perkins.)

Many schools are noted for the spirit which makes their every function a success. A few are noted for the lack of this same spirit.

Shelbyville is perhaps one of the best examples of the first kind. There is no school activity there of any sort that is not patronized by at least six out of every ten students. To see less than seventy-five per cent. of the high school enrollment at a Shelbyville basketball game is so rare as to be almost impossible.

Now let us look at our own high school. If seventy-five students out of nearly two hundred witness a game here it is considered a good attendance. Our half-hearted support of a winning team has become a subject of unfavorable comment among teachers, students, and townspeople alike. Even when we attempt so small a demonstration as a "send-off" for the "five" only about half of the school responds, and these do so, for the most part, not so much to show their enthusiasm as to make some noise. Every one who ever attended this school, knows that what we need most, we have least—that is school-spirit. This is a serious lack. It means that if it isn't increased, our school will soon be decreasing in enrollment and diminishing in efficiency until it will eventually become a habitual loser in all fields of inter-scholastic activity. It means further that the school will reach a "run-down" condition and become a second-rate institution hardly the equal of some of the neighboring township schools, where spirit has fostered efficiency.

In order to correct this weakness we must know the cause. Is it the faculty? Improbable. Our principal has given the students every opportunity for organizing themselves as a united body and displaying enthusiasm and they have failed to take advantage of these chances. The other teachers are helping in every way possible to arouse patriotism in the school. No, the faculty is not responsible. Perhaps, then, it is the schools representatives who are to blame for the lack of support they receive. This explanation is eliminated, however, when we consider them.

In oratory we have always ranked well and the same may be said of debating. Our present basketball team has been beaten by only two opponents this year. What former team has such a record? Certainly such representatives are deserving of spirited support. This leaves but one plausible reason for our deplorable lack of enthusiasm. Are the students themselves to blame? I believe they are. Anyone after a little observation will understand that they are the cause of our listlessness and will realize, that there is no justification for their spiritless attitude.

We can recommend but one remedy, a plan which has succeeded in other schools, and which should prove effective here. Let the different classes organize as separate bodies and elect officers; let them meet at scheduled times and hold each member of their organization responsible for his or her share of the spirit necessary to make. A "real" high school; at each school function call attention to the class which is best represented and so stimulate each to make their class the most loyal of the four.

Should this plan fail we may expect to find, sooner or later, a "dead" school, containing few, if any, "live wires."

It is always going down hill that the brakes break.

To "Spend your money like a prince" is alluring, but the prince is sure of his job.

There's nothing that pays like looking wise and tending to your own business.

"Making good" is more reliable than making trouble.

Interview With a Princess.
(Katherine Todd.)

When Mr. Marlatt informed me that my request had been granted and that I was to obtain an introduction and an interview with the Princess Neawanna, I confess that I began to have a chilly feeling in the region of my feet. As I followed him into the office where the princess was to receive me I was impressed with the truth of the old adage "Distance lends enchantment to the view."

The personal appearance of the princess, however, had nothing to do with this impression. She was a typical Indian from the straight, blue-black hair and flashing eyes to the tips of her beaded moccasins. As I approached, she held out a slim, red hand to me, invited me to be seated and expressed her willingness to answer any question I might ask. But all the carefully prepared speeches I had concocted for the occasion had mysteriously left me; so after a little explanation of my mission and the paper I represented, I endeavored by more or less—mostly less—tactful questions to elicit some interesting information from her.

"I am Princess Neawanna, in English 'Sparkling Waters,'" she told me, "and I belong to the Algonquin division of the Ojibwa Indians. I practice the religion of my people, Catholicism and claiming my title by right of direct descent. I am the great grand daughter of the great chief of the Ojibwas Black Eagle, an Indian of national renown."

"I spent my childhood with my people," she responded in answer to a request for a summary of her life. "I spoke my native language almost altogether then and such English as I could command was but imperfect and halting. At the age of fifteen I went to Carlisle University with the intention of educating myself to be a teacher among my own people. When I graduated five years later, however, I found that lecturing was much more profitable and perhaps, indirectly, more helpful to my race. I have spent the entire four years since my graduation in lecturing and have been all through every state east of the Mississippi river and south of Mason and Dixon's line."

"By mathematical calculation I deduced that you are twenty-four," I remarked.

"Exactly" was the smiling rejoinder.

"And-er-unmarried?"

"Oh certainly"—as if I should have known without asking.

"I make a specialty of reciting," she went on in answer to my further queries, "especially the poems by and about the Indians. All my spare time is spent in reading. Poetry occupies a great deal of it since I do not care for prose. My favorite poet is Tennyson. I like Riley also, and have read many of his works but he can not compare, in my opinion with Tennyson."

When asked for her views on some important questions of the day, she said emphatically: "Liquor has been the cause of the downfall of my race. I shall welcome the day which brings nation-wide prohibition." Also: "The white woman occupies the same position as the Indian squaw. She is down trodden by men and is allowed to exist, but that's about all. I think women should have equal rights with men."

"Last of all," I asked, "how do you feel toward civilization? Would you like to go back to the old life?"

"Never!" she exclaimed. "I visit my people every summer; for I love them all; but I could not bear to go back to the life of the wigwam. I have received the civilization of the white man and I mean to keep it forever."

She spoke emphatically, and yet there was a something in her eye and voice which seemed to tell of smothered longings for the wild freedom of the forest and the smoky comfort of the tepee.

Orchestra Gives Good Program

High School Musical Organization Entertains Members of Senior High School With Selections.

GENEROUS APPLAUSE GIVEN

Although Organized During Present School Year, Orchestra Makes Commendable Progress.

(Syril Arbuckle.)

On the morning of February 8 the high school orchestra entertained the members of the senior high school with several selections from their rapidly increasing repertoire.

The pieces were "Panquita," a Mexican dance by Robyn, "Intermezzo Russe" by Franke and "Poor Butterfly" from the "big show" at the New York Hippodrome. The numbers were well received as was indicated by the generous applause. As an encore the musicians repeated the first chorus of "Poor Butterfly."

Although the orchestra has been organized during the present school year it has made highly commendable progress under the efficient leadership of Charles Ernest Parke, supervisor of music in the local schools.

RED HOT STUFF

Beans.

What is life without a bean? Once upon a time, children used beans to snuff up their noses. They are now used by millionaires as jewelry.

My grandmother says that she can remember when they had beans three times a day and four days a week. Now we do well to get bean soup once a week. This delectable luxury is made by dragging half a dozen beans on a string through hot water; sometimes the string breaks, and then you find an occasional bean in the bowl.

But there are beans and beans. Besides soup beans there are butter beans, green beans, Roger Beans, and "ivory beans."

My uncle speaks of his "greenbacks" as beans. If he is correct in his terminology, my money must be of the Mexican jumping variety.

Indian beans are supposed to bring good luck, but fifteen soup beans will bring a fortune.

Green beans are harder to string than some people.

A cafe is where they serve real beans, while the place, where they have none, is called a "beanery."

Long live the bean!

Miss Dennis: (In discussing diet): "Helen, what does a doctor do if he sees that a child is not getting enough iron in his diet?"

Helen Dugan: (Wisely): "Why he gives him a little iron."

Mr. Masters: (Observing Neawanna): "Well, Marlatt, she's pretty, intellectual, and charming. Here's your chance."

Mr. Marlatt: (Confidently): "Just watch my smoke. It's not so absurd as you think. I always wanted a wife who would be 'well read' and it's just what I needed."

Hears Lecture
On Newspaper

Class in Newspaper Writing Is Told What One Who Expects to Become Reporter Should do.

NO HARD AND FIXED RULES

Especially Trained Men Are Entering Work More—Preparation More Important Than Talent.

(Mary McCoy.)

"Essentials of success in reportorial work" was the subject of a lecture presented on Monday morning to the members of the Newspaper Writing class by Roy E. Harrold, the managing editor of the Rushville Daily Republican.

Mr. Harrold brought to his speech a facility of expression and a wealth of newspaper experience, which made it interesting as well as valuable to teacher and student alike. He emphasized especially the practical aspects of journalistic work and so contributed material not usually found in text books on the subjects.

Mr. Harrold's lecture was in short as follows:

"The duty of the reporter is to gather and write news. The gathering of news has a peculiar fascination since it puts him in touch with the joys and sorrows of life and gives him a conception of the motives that inspire the actions of people. In the writing of news, however, no hard and fixed rules are observed."

"The news reporter rises, not because of his talents, but on account of his training. A few years ago most reporters arose from positions on their home newspaper to one in the city. But now most of them are instructed if they do well in metropolitan newspaper work."

"An ideal reporter must be ingenious, resourceful, honest and energetic. He must at no time place the paper in a bad light. He should be able to write accounts on short notice. He must endeavor to obtain information that is purposely withheld. He must be accurate. He should be able to tell who gives false and who gives true information. He should employ simplicity and terseness of expression in writing news."

"A news story should be told in the first paragraph, or, if possible, in the first sentence. There are two reasons for this: first, people may glance merely at the first part of the story; or space may make it necessary to 'cut off' part of it, and, if it has been told in this way the story will not seem incomplete. Paragraph should not exceed one hundred words."

"There are no fixed rules for writing, yet there are some practices that help the reporter. For instance, capitalized words, unless necessary, should not be used. It depends altogether upon the owner or managing editor as to what style is followed in the writing of the news."

Mr. Harrold had with him some examples of rules from the Indianapolis News and the department of journalism of the University of Wisconsin; from these he pointed out some "helps" for a beginner in newspaper work.

A Spirit of Love.

The first faint rays, of morning bright

Had crept across the sky;

But nature, saddened, saw no light

And uttered low a sigh.

A youthful spirit, lithe and coy

Saw nature's lowered head

And vowed to give her light and joy

Which seemed to be quite dead.

The spirit went from tree to flower

In joy along his way

And stopped at every secret bower

To leave a sunbeam's ray.

As nature then so cheerful grew

Her praises soared above

Wind wafted waves sincere and true

Yours truly, Mary McCoy.

Each Sophomore invited a guest thus making a large crowd who enjoyed the festivities of the evening. Contests and games, suggestive of Valentine Day were the most important feature of the evening. The house was decorated in hearts, cupids and flowers. A splendid two course luncheon was served. The Sophomores included the Misses Myrtle Sefton, Mable Stacey, Elsie Schrouse, Dorothy Beaver, Bertha Moore, Mary Roberts, Helen Jinks and Russell Logan, Franklin Morris, Riley Stewart, and Russell Dora.

That Thomas Hardy is without question the greatest living master of the English novel was the declaration of Dr. Jenkins of Indiana university at the meeting of the Shakespeare club in the court house last night. Dr. Jenkins reviewed the life and works of Hardy.

Dr. Jenkins said that Hardy is the transition from the Victorian to the contemporary novelist. The lecturer declared that Hardy studied architecture in his early life, which accounts for his architectural heroes and picturesque landscapes.

Dr. Jenkins said that Hardy's novel, "Desperate Remedies," is slightly amateurish in conception and execution, but suggestive of the latter Hardy. "A Pair of Blue Eyes," the lecturer said, shows a prodigious affectionate capacity.

"Hardy's girls have a way of renegeing," continued the speaker. "Hardy's novels are a field day for the men. They marry and die readily in the Victorian novels. Hardy's plots are more or less absurd, but a powerful and ironic handling saves them. In powers of describing landscape, Hardy is incomparable."

In reviewing "Far From the Mad-ding Crowd," Dr. Jenkins pointed to the fact that the women in Hardy's novels frequently take the initiative and in that respect they are scarcely contemporary. He said the plot is as sensational as an American best-seller.

Reviewing "The Hand of Ethelberta," the speaker said: "Ethelberta was very infectious. She attracted men as a magnet does iron filings, just infer that he died. There are so many demises that I can't discuss them all. Hardy prefers the trapezoid to the triangle in his stories."

Dr. Jenkins said "The Return of the Native" was distinguished by a chorus of peasants which in characterization is essentially Shakespearean. In Hardy, he said, there are always many men to one woman, and the heroine is always strictly neutral, being unable to make up her mind.

"It is Hardy's manner that is great in 'The Mayor of Casterbridge,'" the lecturer said. "It is the manner of a man who has iron in his system; the manner of a man who sees hell as Dante saw it. Elizabeth-Jane is one of Hardy's best portraits. She is not a pestilent 'O-Be-Joyful' Pollyanna or an optimistic infant. If you can't be joyful be cheerful was her motto. But in the conclusion, the book is a real tragedy."

"The Woodland" excels in forest descriptions, Dr. Jenkins said. He declared that in this book the melodramatic pistol is most too prominent for art, but that it presents one of the most charming yet tragic romances in literature.

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles" is full of social doctrine, much as it was denied by Hardy, the speaker declared. He gave briefly an outline of the story:

"Alec is a very bad egg and betrays Tess. She realizes that her fall was due to ignorance and upbraids society because she did not know. Tess meets and marries Angel Claire. She confesses to him and he rejects her. Tess, left alone, meets Alec, who has become an evangelist. She returns to him and kills him when Angel Claire returns. The book ends when Angel and Tess's sister watch for the flutter of a flag which tells that Tess has been hanged. Conventionally Tess was intensely wicked, but in reality a 'pure' woman."

Dr. Jenkins said the theme of "The Well-Beloved" was inconsistent with Hardy because here the man and not the woman is fickle. "Jude the Obscure," he asserted, is an indictment against the lack of democratic education in England.

We announce the new style in coats, suits and dresses for spring

What the fashion is and the unusual difficulties in being sure of it

We are now fully prepared to ring up the curtain on this before-the-season showing of the smart models for the spring '17.

Never has there been a style quite so difficult to be right about.

The beautiful new silhouette, youthful, clinging, demure, is one having a thousand subtleties.

It is so beautiful, so exacting—the slightest deviation misses the point altogether. No one without a keen appreciation of lines can imitate or stimulate the correct silhouette.

One must go to style headquarters, to authority, to master—or do without. And never was there such a demand for the correct Coats, Suits and Dresses. Therefore, you will appreciate our connection with The H. Black Company, of Wooltex-fame, and scores of the foremost firms in New York City. This firm has searched the markets for the very best.

You, who understand and admire the finer points of beautiful designing and tailoring, will be delighted with this exhibition. It indeed constitutes a rare showing, marked by graceful lines and resourceful individuality.

We extend the most cordial invitation to you to try on and talk over these models.

Miss Phyllis Casady entertained a number of her girl friends with a pitch-in dinner last evening at her home in West Ninth street. The decorations were suggestive of Valentine Day. The following guests enjoyed a social evening over games and music: the Misses Elizabeth Pearson, Mary Louise Wyatt, Marguerite Kelly, Jeanne Sparks, Josephine Scholl, Leatha Higgins and Helen Thomas.

Sixty members of the Dr. Gilbert class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school enjoyed a pleasant afternoon yesterday at the home of Mrs. Will Kirkpatrick when they were entertained with a Valentine social. Little cupids and hearts were used for decorations. The guests played Valentine games, one of the most enjoyable ones being shooting little cupids on a sheet with miniature bows and arrows. They were also expected to make poetry out of little candy hearts with words inscribed on them. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

One of the most brilliant affairs of the season was the dance given in the Phi Delta Kappa Hall last evening. The hall was appropriately decorated with Japanese lanterns and hearts, a color scheme of red being carried out throughout the entire hall. There were about 40 couples in attendance, those from out of the city being Clarence Smith, Chester Quyle, Fred Fiddler and Miss Lillian Hascott of Connersville, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharp, Mrs. Williams, the Misses Robinson and Higman of Newcastle and Miss Ethel Vestal of Knightstown, and Miss Hazel Price and Ray Bird of Shelbyville.

Punch and light refreshments were served between dances.

The members of the U. G. I. Go club, were entertained Friday evening at the hospitable country home of Mr. and Mrs. James Oneal south-east of the city, with a pitch-in supper. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher and daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. James Stiers, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Logan, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson and children, Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Wilson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Logan, Mrs. Mary Poston and children, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilks and children. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elsa Hilgoss, Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Wiley and three girls, Miss Beanie Padgett, Dorothy and John Beaver.

Mrs. Charles Frank entertained several members of the D. T. Club yesterday afternoon at her home in West Ninth street. Colors suggestive of Valentine Day were carried out both in the decorations and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith entertained the following guests at their home in North Sexton street last evening: Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sharp and children, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walkendoff, William Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Trennepohl and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Trennepohl and son, Mrs. Herbert Gilson and daughter, Mrs. Lucy Trennepohl and Miss Gladys Creagor. The house was attractively decorated with hearts and cupids. The refreshments were also suggestive of Valentine Day.

The regular meeting of the W. R. C. was held yesterday afternoon with twenty-two members and officers present. The next meeting promises to be quite interesting. It will be held on Feb. 22 in the assembly room of the court house when the members will observe Washington's birthday with a special program.

Miss Pansy Newhouse entertained the members of her Sunday school class of the Christian church last night. The evening was spent with contests and games, John Joyce being awarded the prize in the contest for finding the most hearts. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Valentine suggestions were also carried out in these.

It Works! Try It

Tells how to loosen a sore, tender corn so it lifts out without pain.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the other discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so softened that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

DEPENDS ON NEW MANAGER

Predicts Improvement Over Last Season—Fifteen Men Want Pitching Jobs

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 15.—What the Cubs will amount to in 1917 is pretty well up to Fred Mitchell, the new manager.

Joe Tinker took the combined Chicago Feds and the old Cubs in 1916 and all the critics placed his team 1-2-3. They were lucky to finish in the league. Catcher Archer developed fragile digits and was of little use. The old pitchers had dead wings and a good many of the players seemed dead from the neck up. Joe had a tough job and finally gave it up.

The Cubs will leave for their training camp at Pasadena, California, next Tuesday. Several weeks will be spent conditioning at this resort, which is the winter home of William Wrigley, part owner of the club.

Mitchell is credited with a great deal of the success attained by George Stallings with the Boston Braves, but the most enthusiastic follower of the club knows he faces a Herculean task.

"The Cubs this season should be a great improvement over last season, for in Mitchell I have one of the most able leaders in the country," said President Weegham today. "He is very progressive and constructive and knows how to handle the players. With the addition of Al Demaree and a few youngsters the pitching staff will shape up to be one of the best in the country.

One of the greatest problems for Mitchell will be his catching staff. Archer is shipping. Art Wilson of Federal league fame had a poor time last season but may come back. Rowdy Elliot, the pudgy youngster from the coast league, showed up well last season and many pin faith on him to become a first string catcher. Bill Dillhoefer, obtained from Milwaukee in the draft, is hailed as a second Ray Schalk.

The slump of Vic Saier at first is believed by many to have been only temporary. Fred Mollwitz and Edward McGinnis, the latter from the sand lots of Boston, are candidates for Saier's job.

Larry Doyle's case is causing local fans much worry. The custodian of the keystone sack broke his leg soon after he came here. Steve Yerkes will be Doyle's understudy.

Mitchell has four youngsters who will try to fill the hole at shortstop. Bill Wortman did well during the last few months last summer. He came from Kansas City with a great rep, but his hitting was minus. The others are Frank Murphy, a semi-pro of Joliet, Ill., Arthur Shap, a Boston sand lotter and Harry Wolfe, drafter from Duluth.

Charlie Deal, who played third base for the Braves in 1914, later flopping to the Feds, may be given a regular berth at his old position. Another possibility for this job is Herb Hunter, obtained from the Giants in the Zimmerman trade. Rollie Zeider will take care of the utility role.

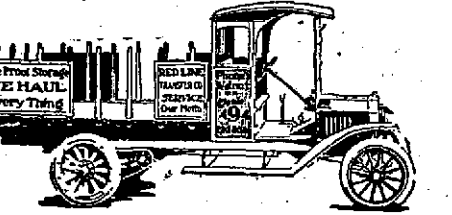

Mitchell has a wealth of outfield material. Cy Williams, the elongated star, will be seen again in center field. Leslie Mann is the strongest candidate for left field. Max Flack, a hold over from the Feds, will be another outfield candidate. Harry Wolter, once of the New York Yan-

TO STANDARDIZE HOSE FITTING

Fire Marshall May Introduce Bill Providing For Uniformity in Cities.

NEWCASTLE FIRE CITED

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—Standardization of fire hose fittings and couplings in all cities in Indiana is being urged by State Fire Marshall William Longley and it is probable that he will ask the legislature to pass a law setting the diameters of couplings and the number of threads to the inch.

It is practically useless, in case of a serious fire for one city to call on another for aid, according to Longley on account of the wide variation in size of couplings used by the different cities, at present.

An instance of this was had when the Union block at Newcastle was destroyed recently, according to Longley. Appeals for aid were sent to Muncie. Although the fire was under control when the Muncie apparatus arrived, they would have been unable to give any assistance because of the difference in size of couplings.

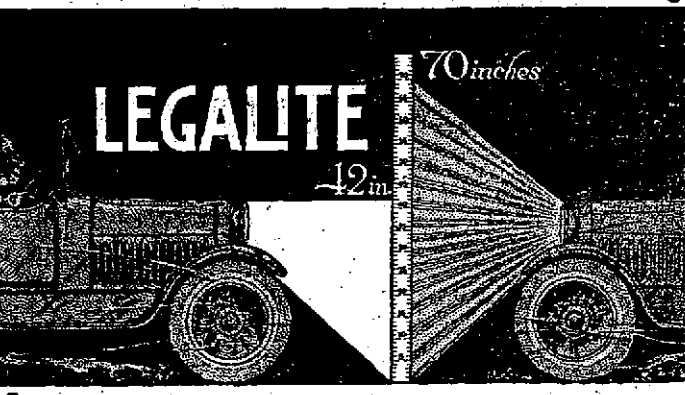

Our ears are all wrong. They got up on the side of our heads in the first place because there wasn't room for them anywhere else. And there they sit, wide open all the time. The worst of it is, they'll listen to anything. Insurance agents, Sunday sermons, bum jokes, bill collectors, wrangling cats or peevish wives—it's all the same to them.

There's no escape! If you don't want to listen, go deaf. And even then there are trumpets.

Elephants have all the luck. They can let down the flaps.

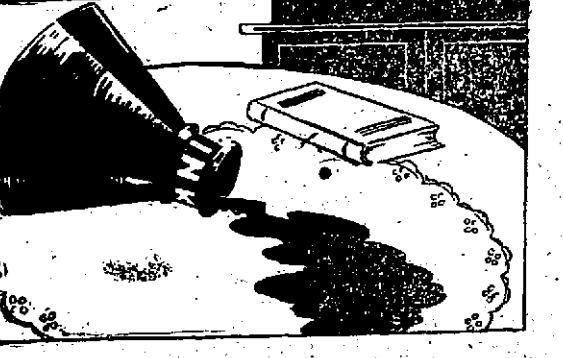

Always use the best; that's Red Cross Ball Blue. All leading grocers sell it—5 cents.

Too Bad, But---

Yes, it is too bad the ink was spilled on that pretty centerpiece, and it would be equally bad to have it spilt on the table cloth or on a garment. But it is not so serious as it would have been if you didn't have a first-class cleaning establishment to take it to.

A spot such as this doesn't worry our workers in the least. They know how to take it out and make the article, apparently ruined, look like new.

Bring the results of your ink accident to us. Ours is a first aid establishment in cases of this character.

Not only ink accidents, but any kind of a stain, we will do our best, and can nearly always remove them. Try us next time and see.

FARMER LAW BODY OPPOSES GRAIN MEN

North Dakota's Legislature Favors Terminal Elevator and Open Fight Expected.

EXPECT OPEN DISAPPROVAL

(By United Press.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 15.—

While North Dakota's farmer legislature today argued for the establishment of a terminal elevator at St. Paul, a rival of this city, the national annual convention of the Farmers' Grain Dealers association, which is not in sympathy with the farmers' political movement, met here for a two day session.

The Non Partisan league, the political organization that gained complete control of the North Dakota administration this year, never has taken the Farmers' Grain Dealers association to its bosom. Instead, the farmers of the Northwest have been taught by the Equity association, the marketing force behind the Non Partisan league, that the Farmers' Grain Dealers association is controlled by the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, against whom the wrath of the Non Partisan league is primarily aimed.

Open disapproval of the elevator men to the proposed terminal elevator plans at St. Paul, may be expressed at the sessions this afternoon.

HOOSIER PESTS.

BY R. E. SNODGRASS.

Most housekeepers know how disgusting it is to open a package of pancake flour and find it full of small brown beetles to discover the corn meal infested with worms that have massed the grains together with their web, or the flour inhabited with small, blackish weevils. There are sixteen species of insects which may infest the pantry shelf and feed on all kinds of dry vegetable food stuffs except sugar.

If you find a new package of cereal or cakes infested, return it at once to the dealer who is always glad to take back such damaged goods. But if the pests appear in food material that you have had for some time, either burn it up or feed it to the chickens who will appreciate the bugs as an extra relish. When you have discovered one infested package, examine everything else you have for the insects generally spread.

If the pests are the young of moths, the latter are likely to be hiding in cracks and corners of the pantry ready to lay their eggs and produce more worms after you have destroyed those already present. If they are beetles, some of them may be concealed in crevices or wandering about the shelves looking to get into a new package. Therefore it is advisable to fumigate the pantry with sulphur.

First remove all silverware or any metal objects that might be corroded by the fumes and all liquid or moist food. Use one four-ounce sulphur candle for every 125 cubic feet of space. Cover the bottom of an old dish pan with wet sand or earth and set the candles on this. Light the candles and keep the pantry closed for six hours or more.

But better than all remedy is prevention. All meals, cereals and other foods should be kept in tight containers.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

MURDERER TO FACE THE FIRING SQUAD

Given Choice of Hanging or Shooting he Elects to be Shot—is Utah Law.

WILL PAY PENALTY FRIDAY

(By United Press.)

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 15.—Convicted of murder and given his choice of being hanged or shot to death, Orazio Rapole, Italian farm hand who killed his employer in a quarrel over a horse, elected to be shot and will die at the hands of a firing squad here Friday morning. He is to be shot to death by a firing squad at Utah state penitentiary. Rapole killed Amos B. Neff, ranchman, at the latter's home in East Mill Creek, June 26, 1916, using a shotgun.

Following the shooting Rapole fled across the hills and was captured at Park City. Following his conviction of first degree murder, a motion for a new trial was entered by newly retained counsel on the contention that attorneys who defended Rapole were under the influence of intoxicants at the time of the trial, Judge Morse, after having the motion under advisement two weeks overruled it and sentenced the convicted man to be executed.

WOULD SEGREGATE BLACKS AND WHITES

Influx of Southern Negroes in Chicago Leads to Move on Part of Real Estate Men.

FOLLOW ACTION OF ST. LOUIS

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Solution of the race segregation problem, made acute in recent months by the steady influx of southern negroes, is the aim of action taken today by representatives of the owners of 50,000 of the 100,000 better class apartments in Chicago. Segregation statutes, similar to the ones in force in St. Louis, will be invoked.

"We believe the interests of Chicago demand that white people shall not encroach upon the colored or the colored upon the white," I. O. Ackley, a member of the committee appointed to perfect plans for immediate action, said. "Therefore we strongly urge the segregation of the races."

"Action taken recently in St. Louis has been decreed constitutional by the Supreme court. It is perhaps the greatest piece of racial legislation since the fourteenth amendment."

The real estate men have also determined upon May 1 as the date for a general 15 per cent increase in all Chicago rentals.

MAY MEAN WITHDRAWAL

(By United Press.)

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 15.—An order construed to mean that all of the national guardsmen on the border will be withdrawn soon has been issued by General Funston. The order directs that men on leave or furlough will be ordered to report to their home department commanders for muster out.

Five Big Things To Remember When Buying A GAS TRACTOR

WORK AND ENDURANCE (NOT PRICE) DETERMINES VALUE:

The design of the tractor, the material of which it is built, and the company building it determines the work it will do, and how long it will last.

CASE HAS BUILT FOR THE FARMER SINCE 1842:

Next year we celebrate our Seventy-fifth Birthday. Three-quarters of a Century—Think of it! We have lived and prospered only because we have made machinery that has made good with its users.

CASE BUILDS 97% OF ALL PARTS USED IN CASE TRACTORS:

As a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a tractor is no stronger than its weakest part. With 97% Case-made and the other 3% subject to Case Laboratory tests, you can rely absolutely on the genuineness of every part of Case Tractors.

STANDING OF THE CONCERN WHOSE TRACTOR YOU BUY:

You cannot take the tractor down, piece by piece, and see every part. For most of it you have to take some one's word. Let the reputation of the company be your guide to those things which you cannot see.

WHICH TRACTORS WILL BECOME ORPHANS:

A leading agricultural paper one year ago said—"The good tractors can be counted on the fingers of one hand." There were more than 100 different makes. Now there are even more. With any Case machine you can always be sure of service. Remember our forty-four big branch houses throughout the country. "Better be Safe than Sorry!"

Potatoes Easy to Cook In Variety of Ways and Have Food Value

The general use of potatoes in the average family and the better customs prevailing in many homes in preparing the tubers for food are based on sound economic and dietetic reasons, according to specialists of the Office of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Studies of the preparation and use of potatoes as food are reported in Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 468, recently issued.

Potatoes are easy to cook in a variety of ways. From the point of view of dietetics, they furnish starch in one readily digestible form, contain mineral substances of importance to the body, and—a fact less generally known—tend to make the tissues and fluids of the body alkaline, so counteracting the tendency of meats, eggs, fish and like foods to create acid conditions. Since the body does its work best when its condition is either neutral or slightly alkaline, potatoes, like most vegetables, perform an important function in the diet besides furnishing energy-producing material. This scientific fact justifies the custom that is prevalent in many families of serving a goodly supply of potatoes or other vegetables with each helping of meat.

Potatoes, however, while a valuable addition to a mixed diet, alone are not suited to meet the needs of the body because of their poverty in proteins and fat. Of these latter important elements protein is furnished in meats, eggs, fish, milk, beans, and similar foods, and fat in butter, bacon, table oils, and the fats and oils used in cookery.

Greater care than commonly is exercised should be taken in peeling potatoes. Very often 20 per cent of the potato is pared away. This results not only in the waste of considerable potato but also in the loss of one of the most valuable portions of the tuber, since the soluble mineral salts are present in the material near the skin, which would be removed and thrown away. These salts can be preserved by a more careful removal of the skin, as by shallow paring or rubbing, and also by boiling or baking the potatoes in their jackets.

Paring before boiling, however, may be the most desirable method of cooking potatoes which through an undue exposure to light may have acquired a bitter taste; or those which have been kept until late in the spring, since in this way more of the disagreeable flavor is eliminated. Such potatoes may also be soaked before cooking.

While these methods may be desirable with potatoes which have been exposed to light, they result in the loss of considerable food value without compensating advantages when applied to new or well-matured potatoes. If such potatoes are boiled after paring, they should be dropped into boiling water instead of being placed on the stove in cold water. By the latter method there is twice the loss of protein, or tissue-building elements, resulting from the former. The loss of mineral matter is about the same each method. There is no loss of starchy materials in boiling unless portions of the tuber break off.

Practically the only loss when potatoes are baked in their skins is of the water which escapes as steam. The more or less common custom of pricking holes in the skin of baked potatoes or breaking them is explained by the fact that unless the steam which is formed inside the skin is allowed to escape it will change back into water and produce sogginess.

Potatoes which have turned green and sprouting tubers have present a considerable quantity of solanine, an acrid poisonous substance which though not dangerous in the quantities ordinarily met with, gives a disagreeable flavor. It is best, therefore, to avoid such potatoes or to cut out green or sprouting portions.
